Kids Charged In $1 Million Extortion Plot

DYERSBURG, Tenn. (AP) — A juvenile officer blames too much crime on television for an attempted $1 million extortion plot planned by a group of Dyersburg boys ranging in age from 10 to 14. The youngsters have been charged with threatening to blow up a Sears Roebuck and Co. store in an attempt to extort $1 million in cash and about $100,000 in guns, trucks and farm equipment. The nine have been released in the custody of their parents pending a juvenile court hearing. Their names were not released.

"It's not that we felt they could have pulled it off," Juvenile Officer Joey McDowell said Tuesday. "It's that 12-year-olds could think of it. It's television and nothing else," McDowell said. Officers didn't know they were dealing with juveniles until the mother of one of the boys identified her son's handwriting on the extortion note. McDowell said the plot was well-planned except for a miscalculation in the amount of postage on the two-pound extortion note and other details that did not become apparent until the nine were in custody.

Sheriff's deputies were called into the case Monday when Sears store officials received a parcel containing a handwritten note and more than 100 pages torn from the Sears' catalog. The note threatened that the store would be blown up if the money and merchandise marked on the catalog pages were not delivered in three Peterbilt trucks. The note demanded rifles, ammunition, farm equipment and citizens band radios.

McDowell said the type of truck was specified because one of the boys was familiar with the vehicle. He said other members of the group were chosen by the 12-year-old leader for particular skills or knowledge. Investigators took the package to the postoffice, and postal officials were able to trace its origin. Despite the package's weight, the boys used only a 10-cent stamp when it was placed in the mailbox at the home of one of plotters for the mailman to pick up. "Everybody down at the postoffice remembered the package," he said. "It was sort of a joke because the postman who picked it up got chewed out for picking it up with so much postage due."

Deputies went to the house where the package had been mailed. McDowell said the mother of one of the boys recognized the handwriting. The other members of the group were quickly identified and picked up, he said.

McDowell said the boys apparently had planned to purchase a large farm in northeast Arkansas and operate it with the equipment they hoped to extort from Sears. He said the boys even considered the possibility that they might have been involved in a shootout with police. One of the members had been chosen because he had some knowledge of first aid.

"Each one of them had a job to do," McDowell said. "It's not that these nine juveniles were capable of accomplishing the crime. It's just that they thought of it and took it as far as they did. It's not entirely impossible that they could have gotten away with it."

State Official Gets Bundle Of Protests On Bell Rate Hike

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Detroit television personality Lou Gordon dumped a wheelbarrow full of cards and letters protesting a proposal to charge for information-telephone calls on a state official's desk Tuesday.

Gordon, who hosts a talk show on WKBD-TV in Detroit, said the clear plastic bags he slit open with a pocketknife contained almost 7,000 cards and letters.

He said the viewers objected to a proposal by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. to charge 20 cents each for every call after the first three each month to the information operator. He said he could have an "army" of angry telephone customers in Lansing if the Public Service Commission allows the 20-cent charge to go through.

The mail rolled in a heap off the desk of Robert Ostot, 50, chief of the Public Service Commission's Communications Division. Ostot got Gordon's mail because of Ostot's recent remark that people were not "upset" by the proposal to charge for information service.

Michigan Bell, in a printed statement, accused Gordon of staging "a grandstand act" and said Gordon's mail "most likely was stimulated by misrepresentations voiced on his TV show and printed several times in his newspaper column."

In his Sept. 21 newspaper column, Gordon said American Telephone and Telegraph AT&T, the parent company of Michigan Bell, reported third-quarter earnings of $27.4 million on revenues of $7.3 billion. Last year, AT&T made $790.4 million in the third quarter on revenues of $6.6 billion, Gordon noted.

John D. deButts, AT&T chairman, said the company got $1.1 billion in telephone rate increases so far this year. Gordon's column said $2.3 billion in telephone rate cases are pending before state and federal regulatory authorities.

Gordon's column quoted a Wall Street Journal article as saying AT&T's revenue jump "resulted largely from rate increases." He quoted the New York Times as saying "although the AT&T report was as expected, several financial analysts voiced surprise that the profit increase was so strong."

Michigan Bell said the vast majority of telephone users would save money on their weekly bills since the cost of information service would be borne only by the few people who phone the information operator.

White Noose Chokes BH Schools--NAACP

The Benton Harbor school desegregation suit took on a broadened scope this week as five more defendants were drawn into the case.

New overtones developed, too, as the NAACP claimed a pattern of actions by surrounding communities and county and state agencies was fostering a "white noose" of segregated communities around the Benton Harbor district.

The NAACP complaint, introduced at a pre-trial conference Monday at Grand Rapids, appeared to be suggesting that the courts should consider some area-wide form of remedy.

At the conference, Federal District Judge Noel Fox also gave "express" permission for the State Board of Education to rehear the Sodus area transfer case. The state board in 1974 approved the transfer of the Sodus area from the Benton Harbor district to Eau Claire, but this spring sought to rehear the case on the basis of claimed new information. Residents of the Sodus area, however, won a ruling from Berrien Circuit Judge halting the state board rehearing.

The Sodus transfer became an added issue in the desegregation case in 1974 when Judge Fox issued a temporary injunction holding the transfer in abeyance. The U.S. Court of appeals later affirmed Fox's action.

At the pre-trial conference Monday, Judge Fox granted a motion by the NAACP to file a supplemental complaint and to add five more parties to the list of defendants in the Benton Harbor desegregation case.

The new defendants include Gov. William G. Milliken, Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, the Berrien County Intermediate School board, Intermediate Superintendent Raymond Srebooth, and the State Municipal Boundary Commission.

The NAACP is pressing the 1967 suit on behalf of the original plaintiffs, Mrs. Ruth Berry and her six children and other black parents and children in the Benton Harbor district.

Defendants at present include the Benton Harbor, Coloma and Eau Claire school districts, the Concerned Parents and Taxpayers of Sodus, the Concerned Parents for Hagar Township School District No. 4 (Eaman), the State Board of Education and John W. Porter, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Atty. F.A. (Mike) Jones, counsel for the Eau Claire district, said Judge Fox gave all parties named in the suit until the third week of October to file briefs contesting all or part of the supplemental complaint, including the admission of additional defendants.

This will delay further the setting of a date for a new trial in the Benton Harbor desegregation suit, which has been pending since the Circuit Court of Appeals sent the case back to U.S. District court last year.

The original Berry vs. Benton Harbor suit was tried in 1970 and U.S. District Court Judge Wallace Kent ruled there was no de facto (illegal) segregation in the Benton Harbor district. The NAACP appealed that decision.

Since that time the case has been expanded to include the transfer of Eaman students from Benton Harbor to Coloma, which was approved by the state board in 1971, and the Sodus transfer decision last year.

In the supplemental complaint accepted by Judge Fox this week, the NAACP charges that Gov. Milliken and Atty. Gen. Kelley have failed to act to prevent segregation in

Sara Moore 'Tipster' For Police, FBI

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — At the same time she was hinting to police at plans to kill President Ford, Sara Jane Moore was feeding other law enforcement officials information on illegal weapons. The Associated Press has learned.

Mrs. Moore, a middle-aged mother with radical connections, continued her role as a government informer in the 24 hours before she fired a revolver at the President across a San Francisco street.

Although Mrs. Moore was picked up by police on a minor weapons charge and questioned by Secret Service agents Sunday evening, the night before the assassination attempt, she was not kept in custody. A police official says federal authorities said they would handle her.

"She gave federal firearms agents a bit of information within the last two or three days," one law enforcement source revealed Tuesday. "And as a result, there is an open investigation based on what she said."

The source said the latest information from Mrs. Moore, who was an informant for the FBI, the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) and local police, involved violations of federal gun control laws. The source would not elaborate.

In Washington, W.H. McCann, assistant to the director of the ATF, said:

"Contact with Mrs. Moore is in connection with an open investigation and we decline to discuss anything."

In the last year and a half, the 45-year-old divorcee had lived in the shadowy world of radicals in the Bay area while funneling information to the FBI, ATF and San Francisco police.

The FBI says she operated as their informant from June 1974 until June 1975, when they ended the contact because she publicly admitted her dual role.

But her contacts with other law enforcement officials continued, including a bizarre series of encounters during the 48 hours leading up to the first shot fired at a president since the assassination of John F. Kennedy in 1963.

During the 48 hours, Mrs. Moore hinted to police that they should stop her from doing something that she said would horrify them.

On Sunday, authorities did listen to the hints — they took away her .44-caliber pistol and detained her until one opportunity to kill the President passed — his Sunday afternoon speech at Stanford University south of here.

On Monday, however, Mrs. Moore easily bought another pistol — a .38-caliber revolver — from the same man who had sold her the first weapon two weeks earlier.

At the same time, she said, she said she was hoping police

'They Have Rights —But Not Here'

DUVALL, Wash. (AP) — Many of the people in this farming community east of Seattle say homosexuals are citizens, too, and have the right to live in peace, as long as they live somewhere besides Duvall.

When the news got out that a Seattle-based treatment center for homosexuals with drug or drinking problems wanted to relocate in Duvall, the neighbors squelched the idea in a matter of three days.

In a project nicknamed "Operation Paul Revere," local residents managed to convince Glenn L. Butler not to lease his land to the people from the Stonewall treatment center.

Butler says he personally thought Stonewall would make an excellent neighbor, but he says he didn't want to get into a court fight.

One resident, Mrs. Irving Davenport, said the neighbors didn't like the idea of what she called a criminal element coming to Duvall because there are too many children here.

Opponents also expressed a fear of declining property values.

Stonewall's director, David Baird, said the center would include some sex offenders, possibly a child molester or two out of its 20-30 residents, but he said they would be carefully screened and later supervised.

"In four years we have had no problems," he said.

Mrs. Davenport said troubled homosexuals have a right to go somewhere, but she added:

"I don't say they don't have rights. After all, this is America."

The Courts Encourage Assassination Attempts

If Squeaky Fromme had been tried within a week on the charge that she pointed a pistol at President Ford 19 days ago.

If Patty Hearst, captured by the FBI last week after a 19-month chase, had gone on trial this week for her alleged part in a bank robbery and other urban guerrilla violence.

If justice in this country were swift, in other words, it's highly unlikely that a middle-aged San Francisco kook would now be charged with trying to shoot the President yesterday.

Trial delays and coddling of suspects in most of the nation's state and federal courts make accused criminals look like martyrs. It's not surprising a lot of flaky people rally to their causes.

The Secret Service didn't exactly cover itself with glory in releasing Susan Moore to take an alleged potshot at the President after San Francisco police told the Secret Service Mrs. Moore might be dangerous to the Chief Executive. At the very least, Mrs. Moore should have been under constant surveillance while President Ford was in San Francisco.

However, not the whole United States Army could keep track of all the dim-witted people who are potential assassins. Such people can be deterred from turning vicious thoughts into reality by exemplary punishment of proved criminals.

If anyone doesn't think so, let him or her watch what happens to a group of youngsters when fair but tough disciplinary action is applied to a miscreant among their numbers. They behave.

Adults are no different; they're just grown-up children.

Berrien county is lucky. It has circuit and district judges who believe in speedy trials. There's less wait for criminal trials here than most other places.

But the nation's courts as a whole do an extremely poor job of bringing criminals to justice quickly, and also of applying uniform and certain sentences.

Until there's substantial reform, it will continue to be a game of Russian roulette for high officials in public

Death Penalty Still Waits On High Court Opinion

For the second time this year, convicted murderers who had been sentenced to die in Utah have been granted stays of execution. Gypsy Codiana, Craig Marvel and Irvin Dunsdon were scheduled to be shot by a firing squad on Thursday, Oct. 2, but the Utah Supreme Court postponed the execution indefinitely. The three men, convicted for the murder of a motorcycle gang member, joined Dale S. Pierre and William A. Andrews in Utah's death row, as well as nearly 300 other persons now under sentence of death around the nation. All are awaiting a definitive ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court on the constitutionality of capital punishment.

Gratuitious Vs. Natural Violence

A psychologist makes a useful distinction between the types of violence that seem to be so necessary to induce people to go to the movies nowadays.

On the one hand is the gratuitous, antisocial violence in films like "Rollerball" and "Magnum Force" in which people are encouraged to get their kicks watching other people being maimed, beaten, tortured and otherwise hurt.

But the violence in such films as "Earthquake," "The Towering Inferno" and "Jaws," although quite explicit, is natural violence, says Dr. Victor B. Kline of the University of Utah.

The total impact of this kind of violence is positive, he says, because it shows ordinary people coming together to overcome some terrible obstacle or danger. It also satisfied "a natural yearning in everyone to experience great emotional adventure without taking any risks."

During the term that begins Oct. 6, the Court is to rule on a case, Fowler V. North Carolina, in which defendant was convicted and sentenced to die for fatally shooting a man after a dice game disagreement. Arguments in the case were heard in April, but the Court did not come to a decision. Further arguments are not on the Court's docket for October, and therefore will not be heard until November at the earliest.

Observers expect that the decision in the Fowler case will be a landmark in the capital punishment controversy. And arguments on both sides of the question are as vehement as ever. In support of the death penalty, Nettie Leaf recently wrote in The New York Times: "Execution — preferably in public — should be a solemn ritual of great significance — a ritual that powerfully announces to all its citizens that the state so values human life that it must mark its violation with the most awful penalty available."

In contrast, Vernon E. Jordan Jr. of the National Urban League has written: "In the end, it is a cruel and unusual punishment, a practice that bloodies the hands of the state and all its citizens, an official sanction for the worst crime of all, taking the life of another human being."

Nettie Leaf's idea of making executions a "solemn ritual... in public" is nothing more than a Roman circus or heathen sacrifice. If invoked, the death penalty should be executed swiftly and privately.

Writer Leaf's drooling zeal, however, does not invalidate the possibility that a swift and private death penalty can help curb crime. It's certainly true that violent crime has been rising consistently and spectacularly in this country ever since the death penalty stopped being used.

Conditions are reaching the point where the nation probably will have to decide that it's less of a strain on conscience to execute criminals than to let them execute innocent citizens.

Don't Forget, Act Surprised!

Editor,
I am writing to complain about your policy of using women's names in your women's section. Why is it that you refuse to print a woman's name as it is, instead of using her husband's name, or Miss before it. I am myself not the property of a man I happen to be married to. I am not saying that all women feel this way but I would like to be given a choice if my name were to appear in your paper.

EDITOR'S NOTE: We follow the overwhelming custom of the community.

SAYS WE NEED 'HANGING JUDGES'
Editor,
About the headline in Sept. 17th issue of newspaper stating that experts feel violent crime has no real solution. What we need is some hanging. Judges like in the wild west days. When they are more concerned about the criminal than the person that has been hurt, the criminal doesn't have much to worry about.

Another thing, these federal judges should spend more time on crime and less time on forced busing for children. The government keeps telling us to conserve on gas. Yet these judges are forcing people to drive buses to burn up millions of gallons of gas that we are going to need. The busing in Boston is making people hate and to break the law in many ways they wouldn't have thought of before. There must be a better way than force.

Another reason there is so much crime is because young people like to copy what they see on television. Gene H. Hogberg says, "In some ways it is almost embarrassing for an American to visit some of the supposedly Godless, atheistic societies of communist East Europe, as I have had the opportunity to do recently. In these countries, one finds moral codes and standards that should be found at home, no pornography on the newstands and in the bookstores, no gay bars, and a healthier family life as evidenced by the strolling young couples one sees pushing baby carriages calmly along the thoroughfares of Prague, Moscow, Bucharest, even at night, unafraid of danger." We don't want to live in a communist country but it seems the biggest cause for the breakup of family life and crime is the lack of concern for each other here in our country.

BLAMES CONGRESS, SPECULATORS
Editor,

I have read your editorial of Sept. 6, 1975, and I agree with you that we shouldn't blame the farmers for escalating bread prices. We should put the blame on speculators and the inflation-minded congress.

Some questions come to mind, however. Will the grain farmers really have a bumper crop? From reports that heavy rains have damaged grain in many areas, we don't know what to believe. Reports that army worms have marched across other grain fields in some areas will mean more losses.

Do all of the American farmers really want to sell grain to Russia? I doubt it. Russia has not paid top prices for grain, so we read. Again, the speculators get the difference in price from the American taxpayers. Some of the grain the Russians bought previously was sold for higher prices to other countries. Russia was a great exporter of grain. If they were fair with the Russian farmers they would again have plenty for themselves.

I believe the American people would rather pay the grain farmers a fair price and keep the grain here, to help keep the cost of bread and meat from

Will Russell, the Benton Harbor boy who for two seasons played a star game on the Michigan Agricultural college eleven, is captain of the new team. The college eleven is without a peer in the history of Soutwestern Michigan. Games are already being arranged with Kalamazoo, Oliver, Hillsdale, M.A.C., and Notre Dame. The first contest will probably be with the high school October 6. Not since 1895 has the college been creditably represented on the gridiron.

Ted's Candidacy Still Dilemma

WASHINGTON — Politics is nothing if not dreams, and the dream in the Democratic Party for years has had as its setting the 1976 nominating convention. It is late in the show, pretenses are falling like the leaves of Autumn, and the George Wallace forces continue to deadlock good sense.

After five ballots the audience rebels at the prospect of choosing again between, groan, Henry Jackson and Hubert Humphrey. Suddenly, from the back of the hall, the chant begins: "Kennedy, Kennedy, Ken-see-dee!" Order is called, but half heartedly, and anyway it is too late. The chant becomes bedlam and the game is over: Edward M. Kennedy is the man.

The dream is most illogical. There has not been a deadlocked Democratic convention since 1924, and no genuine draft since the party's choice of James Garfield. Besides, Teddy Kennedy insists he'll not run nor be conscripted. Yet such is the dream's appeal that multiplying numbers of other Democratic presidential candidates are beginning to believe it has what Jimmy Carter's people call the stuff of self-fulfilling prophecy. If so, many groups, the party is doing everyone a disservice, probably including itself.

The ongoing Kennedy fascination has long perplexed those others who would be the Democrat's favorite. Early this year one unannounced candidate said privately, after a reporter's indiscretion: "Are we discussing Kennedy's qualifications or mine? It's bad enough reading about his superlatives but I'll be damned if I'll talk about them too."

The resentments are natural enough. It's a bit off-putting, says Udall assistant Bob Neuman, "to work your rear for months and then find out in a California poll that Kennedy is still ahead of everybody by three times." What's more, there are the financial considerations; new laws which limit campaign contributions have minimized the effects of contributors who are holding their money until the Kennedy question is final.

Beyond the notions of finances and fairness, though, is that of logic. Not entirely defensively, supporters of other candidates say their campaign travels have convinced them that though Kennedy might win a convention he could not at this time win an election. A Watergate-sobered public, it's explained, is in no mood for risking another president of questionable character.

Says an observer close to Fred Harris: "I personally think things like Chappaquiddick, booze and women add to Kennedy's mystique. But that's the grudging admiration in me. Out in mid-America, where they still do the two step, there are hordes of voters who just aren't similarly inclined."

How much would Chappaquiddick matter? "At least three or four percentage points if Kennedy runs," says a rival, "and since we think the next election will probably be close, it could be that Chappaquiddick would mean the difference." At best, the candidate adds, Kennedy might squeak by a weak Jerry Ford only to take office under a cloud of public suspicion and resentment, in which case "The Democrats would get what they want but at a terrible price."

Charisma is not enough, say critics, there must be a democratic process as well. Or as a Gene McCarthy aide says it: "If the Democratic Party has come to the state where it believes it needs to push one man to save it, then maybe it's not worth saving."

Security Blanket Is Too Heavy

WASHINGTON (KFS) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's security blanket is in danger of smothering his 1976 Presidential campaign.

The Texan is running simultaneously next year for both President and re-election to the Senate, and the two goals are turning out to be somewhat incompatible.

The Federal Election Commission dealt his Presidential effort a severe (and, many think, unfair) blow recently by ruling that in his dual race he may not spend more than the ceiling for the Senatorial campaign while, which is $60,000. Meanwhile, his Senate opponents may spend the same amount for an undivided purpose, and his Presidential primary opponents may spend the Presidential limit of $1.3 million in the state.

Bentsen must win the bulk of the Texas — Democratic Presidential delegation if he is to have bargaining strength at the convention. But the Senate seat is his security, and some of his biggest backers give that priority over the Presidential bid.

It presents a perfect picture of an uncomfortable political vise. Bentsen will probably face a liberal Democrat in the May Senate primary and liberal opposition for Presidential delegates in at least some of the Congressional districts. The liberals have never forgiven him for defeating their favorite, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, in the primary six years ago.

He will also be competing against the right-wing delegates of Gov. George Wallace, who has considerable strength in Texas, in the Presidential primary.

Only two days before the commission's ruling, Bentsen abruptly decided to retrench in his Presidential spending by skipping the early Northern primaries and concentrating upon a regional candidacy in the South and in Border States. The decision amounted to a public concession on Bentsen's part that what he is really after is the Vice Presidency, since no candidate without a proven national base is likely to win the Presidential nomination.

It was such a drastic curtailment of his campaign and carried such potential damage to his credibility as a candidate that his campaign manager, Ben Palumbo, resigned. But the decision reflected the growing concern of Bentsen's advisers that he was spending too much time and money appealing to interests that could not help him, and might even hurt, in Texas.

Bentsen has been a relatively popular Senator at home. He has raised the third-largest sum of any of the Presidential candidates, much of it in Texas, but he has spent all but about $200,000 of it criss-crossing the country the past year.

He is the only one of the Presidential candidates to be burdened with a complicated home state problem. Texas law permits him to run for both national and state office simultaneously, a little courtesy first extended to Lyndon Johnson and revived by Bentson supporters for his benefit next year.

Sen. Henry Jackson and Rep. Morris Udall are up for re-election, but the filing deadlines in their states for their old jobs are not until after the Democratic convention. Sen. Birch Bayh won re-election last fall and is safe for awhile. The others hold no current elective office, except Gov. Milton Shapp, who cannot succeed himself.

Sens. Edward Kennedy and Edmund Muskie are up for re-election but have forsaken the temptations of the Presidency to concentrate on returning to the Senate.

TED SATISFIED
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says he is not calling for a reopening of the Warren Commission investigation because "I was satisfied with the conclusions of the Warren Commission and still am."

BH Development Director Wants 'Cooperation'

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

Alvin Chase, newly-hired director of Benton Harbor's economic development department, stressed the need for "community cooperation" in addressing the St. Joseph Kiwanis club yesterday.

"Economic development does not stop at municipal boundary lines," Chase said. "It affects everyone and we need the cooperation of everyone to get the job done."

Chase, who heads the new city department seeking to find new jobs and broaden the city's tax base, said the new post was "the toughest I've ever taken on" but also "one I'm glad to take on."

Chase admitted that the climate of unemployment and a high crime rate in Benton Harbor was not conducive to development of industry and said it was a problem that "should be tackled with the greatest urgency."

"Many people say that Benton Harbor has gone downhill for the last 10 to 15 years, but the entire county has not progressed like it should have in the last decade either," Chase said. Business prospects look at an entire area when considering a decision to move in, Chase said, and for that reason, "the problem belongs to all of us and we each have a responsibility to each other."

In regards to input on economic development from Benton Harbor businessmen, Chase said he viewed his job as a "mediator to bring an understanding among the electorate, elected officials and businessmen."

Chase said he was working on a program using Benton Harbor's empty industrial buildings as "incubators" for new and growing industries. Chase explained that the buildings would be used by new companies to become established after which they could move on to new facilities. A prime target for the "incubator" program, Chase said, would be the bankrupt Benton Harbor Malleable plant.

Chase, a former manager of the Eau Claire Fruit Exchange and a development director in Orange county, N.Y., addressed the Kiwanis at St. Joseph Elks lodge.

Prior to Chase's address, the Kiwanis club honored five members for long membership with the club. Inducted into the club's "Legion of Honor" were Loren D. Troost, past president and club member for 50 years; Myron H. Wolcott, past lieutenant governor and member for 40 years; Richard C. Merson, past president and member for 40 years; Wesley H. Brown, member for 35 years, and George F. Atwell, past president and member for 30 years.

SCENIC TURNOUT: Lookout park in 3300 block of Lake Shore drive, St. Joseph, is nearing completion. It's first scenic turnout immediately off highway north from the Indiana state line. Park is intended to give motorists a breather and expansive view of Lake Michigan. Park has 283 feet of frontage. City of St. Joseph owned about half the frontage and remainder was donated by State Highway department. Cost of about $12,000 for building park is being shared by city and Berrien County Parks and Recreation commission. (Walter M. Booth photo)

PLEDGES TOTAL 35% OF GOAL

United Way Launches '75 Drive

The 1975 Blossomland United Way campaign was launched on a surge of strength Tuesday evening when campaign chairman Robert Molhoek told a packed-house audience in the Lake Michigan College student union that 35 per cent of the $730,000 fund-raising goal already has been pledged.

Molhoek said $255,500 has been reported to date for the highest achievement ever at campaign kick-off. Two years ago, 25 per cent of goal was attained when campaigners opened their solicitation, while 34.1 percent was reported at the same time in 1974.

Despite economic conditions plaguing the country, Molhoek said, United Way goals throughout the country are seeking an average of 8.2 per cent increase in giving over 1974. He cited Lakeshore public schools, Berrien Spring schools, Lake Michigan Catholic schools, and Memorial hospital employee campaigns for making up early results with 55 per cent to 58 per cent increases.

Henry Tippet, president of Blossomland United Way, reviewed the 33 campaigns area fund-raisers have annually conducted and in which $10,745,000 have been pledged. Despite 12 times in which the goal was missed, Tippet said 99.3 per cent of the total goals had been reached. This is a remarkable record, and Tippet praised the fund raising volunteers and people of the community. Tippet predicted the need for expanding community services will be paralleled by a new string of campaign victories.

Jesse Owens, Olympic track star whose athletic deeds in pre-war Berlin have become legendary, keyed the huge gathering with stirring recollections of his nine-year quest for running supremacy. Owens attained his high goal by pursuing his dreams of emulating an earlier great track star. He challenged BUW campaigners to dream of winning their campaign, and related several human success stories to establish that hard work can do the job.

The famous winner of four gold Olympic medals emphasized his spiritual approach to people helping people. Owens contended that the lives of the needy and those who provide the means of life-enrichment are both enhanced by the adherence to Christian principles.

Owens currently operates his own public relations firm in Phoenix. He is a part-time Berrien resident, summering in southwest corner of the county. A member of many civic organizations and endeavors, Owens is holder of the meritorious NCAA Theodore Roosevelt 1974 award.

Edward Donahue, vice-president and general manager of Clark Equipment company's construction machinery division, presided at the banquet. He praised Jesse Owens as a humanist and a humorist, and extolled Owens' achievements with youth.

Leo Isaac introduced members of the Blossomland United campaign cabinet. Dr. Don Moely's jazz lab band from Lake Michigan College entertained the campaigners in the young musicians' first public appearance.

All volunteers were saluted for their Americanism in a finale prepared by United Way of America. A triple screen mixture of slides and motion film projected from hidden equipment depicted the rise and success of volunteerism in America. Harold Andrus, president of the Twin Cities Camera Club, co-ordinated the massive production.

Barry Davis, vice-president of Paxson Advertising, and Karen Gillam, personnel representative of Heath Company, supervised hall preparations.

Two Hurt In Berrien Smashup

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A Benton Harbor man and a Niles woman were injured in a one-car accident south of here early today.

Berrien county sheriff's deputies from the Gallen substation said injured were the driver, James O. Henry, 56, 1034 Collins, Benton Harbor, and his passenger Martha Koonitz, 24, of Niles.

Henry was listed in good condition this morning at Pawling hospital, Niles. Miss Koonitz was treated and released at Pawling for injuries received in the 2:50 a.m. crash.

Deputies said Henry was headed north on US-31 near Rangeline road when his auto left the road striking a car parked in front of the Dave Paul Bodyshop, 805 Niles avenue (US-31).

No citations were issued and deputies said the accident is still under investigation.

Florida Electric Car Labeled Unsafe By Michigan Troopers

LANSING, Mich. (AP). — State Police have labeled a Florida-made electric car unsafe, prompting the state Bureau of Driver and Vehicle Services to withhold registrations on them.

Angry officials for Sebring Vanguard Inc. said only about 15 Citicars have been sold in Michigan.

"It just reflects the attitude of the state police to get the thing off the road," Robert Beaumont, Sebring board chairman, "They aren't taking into account the social, political and ecological ramifications."

(Lou Schroeder, of Schroeder Buick, Inc., Benton Harbor, which recently became a dealer for the electric Citicar, said today he had no immediate comment on the matter and will confer with the manufacturer.)

Last week Consumers Union, a private non-profit organization, also declared the Citicar unsafe.

According to State Police, the Citicar "appears to be of plastic or fiberglass about one-eighth of an inch thick with no support whatever and which would result in little or no protection for an occupant."

Beaumont said the car's body is made of Cycloc, a space-age plastic that is used in football helmets. He said the Citicar also comes with a welded aluminum roll cage.

Record Volume Reported By St. Joe Hospital

Memorial hospital of St. Joseph had a dramatic expansion in patient care during the fiscal year ending June 30, stockholders of the association that runs the St. Joseph medical center were told last night.

Gross volume of business was $8,077,940 compared with $6,853,539 the prior year, Controller Harvey E. Vander Bee reported at the association's annual meeting.

A net surplus after expenses of $380,277 made 1974-75 "the best year financially in the hospital's history," Vander Bee said. Last year the net was $216,478.

Surpluses are used to pay off the hospital's long term debt for construction and new equipment, Administrator Robert Bradburn noted. The association still owes on a major addition completed three years ago at a cost of more than $5 million.

Currently, work is underway on a $2 million renovation program.

Twenty-nine of the non-profit association's 32 stockholders were present either in person or by proxy. A contribution of more than $1,000 is required to qualify as a stockholder.

One new trustee was elected last night for a three-year term. He is William Johnson, vice president of St. Joseph's Heath Co. Johnson will replace David Nurse, president of Heath Co., who asked to be relieved of his hospital post because of the press of business.

Re-elected trustees, also for three-year terms were Robert Gillespie, Leland Hill, Dr. Dean Hudnutt, Nelson (Bert) Lindendorf, John Nedu, Fred Reddel, Jr., and Robert C. Upton.

Jeff Edmunds was elected to serve as a liaison member from the board of Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, for one year.

President A. Edward Brown. Other trustees of the association are Leland Hill, Edward B. Starke, Robert C. Miller, Gerald Hopper, Walter Lantz, Mrs. Lorraine Zinkil, Warren East, John Hunter, James Huntington, Dr. Dean K. Ray, Orville Schrage and E. A. Baillif.

Trustees held their regular monthly meeting after the stockholders session and re-elected the same officers who served during the preceding year: Lester C. Tiscornia, president; A. Edward Brown, vice president; John Hunter, treasurer; and Robert A. Bradburn, secretary-administrator.

SERVICE AWARD: Jack M. Mulder, Sr., Benton Harbor water department superintendent, recently received Michigan Chapter of American Waterworks Association's Raymond J. Faust award. One of highest awards superintendent can receive in state, annual Faust award is given for "outstanding personal service in water supply field and in commemoration of contribution to safe public health practices." The award is in memory of Raymond J. Faust, director of the State Health department's engineering division for many years.

JESSE OWENS SALUTES UNITED WAY: Robert Molhoek, left, and Edward Donahue join Jesse Owens, center, Olympic Gold medal track star, in saluting 500 volunteers who commenced their quest for $730,000 in United Way pledges Tuesday at Lake Michigan College student union. Molhoek told campaigners they have already posted 35 per cent of the goal for the highest percentage to date at kick-off time. Giant solicitation team plans to go over the top by November 5, Molhoek said.

CLUBS • CHURCH • FAMILY • FASHION • SCHOOL • HOME • SOCIETY

PWP Offers Group Series

The Twin Cities chapter of Parents Without Partners again this fall will offer a series of personal growth group sessions for single, divorced or widowed people.

The sessions will be conducted by Ralph Datema, a counselor at the Samaritan Center in Benton Harbor and an instructor in sociology at Lake Michigan College.

The eight sessions will be held on Thursdays from 7:30-9 p.m. at the Benton Harbor Holiday Inn, 2900 M-139, starting Oct. 2 and ending Nov. 20.

The program is designed to help those people who are alone in a society geared principally to married couples. It will employ group interaction and a variety of media methods.

Datema holds a master's degree in divinity from Eden Seminary, Webster Groves, Mo., with special emphasis in counseling and developmental psychology. He has completed additional training in analysis and therapy and has conducted group sessions throughout Michigan.

Enrollment in the group will be limited and pre-registration is required. Interested individuals should call the Samaritan Center any weekday to register or to obtain additional information.

Cost for the eight sessions will be $20 per person.

Country Crafts Theme For Christian Women

"Country Crafts" will be the theme of the Christian Women's club luncheon Thursday, Oct. 2, at 12:30 p.m. at Benton Harbor Holiday Inn.

Mrs. James Kepler, Michigan City, Ind., will speak on "Successful Living."

Various country crafts will be on display. Polly Gillman will give a demonstration on needlepoint techniques.

Music will be provided by Miss Leslie Ambrose, vocalist.

A free nursery for pre-school children will be open from 11:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. at First Assembly of God, 600 Nickerson Avenue, Benton Harbor.

All area women are invited.

Reservations should be made by Monday, Sept. 20, with Mrs. Darrell, Sept. 20; Mrs. Kurt Garbischewski, both of Benton Harbor.

Plan 'Parents Anonymous' Informational Meeting

An information meeting about Parents Anonymous will be held Monday, Sept. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Augustine's Episcopal church, 1753 Union Street, Benton Harbor.

The meeting will be held as the first step towards the organization of a Benton Harbor-St. Joseph chapter of Parents Anonymous, a federally funded self-help program for parents with child abuse problems, according to Mrs. Floyd (Elodia) Flynn of St. Joseph, who is serving as sponsor for the formation of the chapter.

Speaker for the meeting will be Jill Mauch of Detroit, regional coordinator for Parents Anonymous, which received federal funding in May of 1974 from the Office of Child Development, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Mrs. Mauch's presentation will focus on the problem of child abuse and the importance of the self-help concept as used by Parents Anonymous. Her primary purpose in visiting the twin cities is to help in the formation of a Parents Anonymous chapter.

Mrs. Mauch has been involved with Parents Anonymous for nearly three years as a parent and chairman of a Detroit area chapter. She has been serving as regional coordinator for Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota since February.

While assisting communities in establishing new Parents Anonymous chapters, she likes to emphasize her role as a PA parent and how the program has helped her to dramatically change her life.

In addition to her involvement with Parents Anonymous, Mrs. Mauch is working towards a degree in occupational therapy and enjoys teaching ballet to children in her community. She is married and the mother of two young children.

Mrs. Flynn, who resides in St. Joseph, says the meeting is being held both for parents and for interested professional people. Those wishing further information may contact Mrs. Flynn.

Mrs. Flynn is a student at Andrews University, where she is working toward a degree in psychology and communications. She is also working toward a clinical degree from International Transactional Association, Kalamazoo.

Parents Anonymous is a crisis intervention program whose primary objective is to help and prevent damaging relationships between parents and their children.

It is a self-help group for parents who abuse their children either verbally, physically or emotionally, and who want to stop the abuse.

Thousands of parents have become members of Parents Anonymous because their answers were yes to one or more of the following questions:

— Are you a troubled or nervous parent who has no place to get help?

— When you are ready to blow up is it you and the children who bear the brunt of it?

— Do you feel confused, guilty and frightened about your parental behavior and feelings?

— Do you believe that you were treated differently or cruelly as a child and that now you're repeating some of the past?

— When you hear the words "abuse" or "neglect" do you end up thinking about your childhood or the parenting you're doing now?

— Are you physically or emotionally abusing or neglecting one or more of your children?

— Do you want your relationship with your children to be different...your family life more fulfilling...less explosive and tense...more loving?

Members of PA meet once a week with parents who have similar difficulties.

Chapter members select a member to provide the active leadership who is aided by a professional person in one of the mental health fields.

Members share phone numbers and occasionally, should a crisis arrive, they can call or visit another member for help.

Parents Anonymous is anonymous and no one needs to use other than their first name, although some members choose to use their full names.

There are no membership fees, dues or other costs. No one has to openly admit their parenting problems, although many members do, and most find that "getting it off one's chest" is a great relief, according to PA spokesmen.

Parents Anonymous maintains a long or short term of "Do It Now" approach to help establish, strengthen and maintain a healthy emotional and physical co-existence for parents and their children. PA's goal is to rechannel destructive attitudes and actions into constructive ones.

Parents Anonymous was founded by a former child-abuser who is known simply as Jolly K., who after becoming angry and desperate for help was challenged by a psychiatric social worker to start "her" own group.

Estimates of child abuse range from a quarter of a million up to 2.5 million a year, and although experts disagree somewhat on estimates, they all agree that this problem is out of control and growing at a very fast rate.

If one were to agree with the PA concept and include verbal, emotional abuse and emotional neglect, while making their estimates, then the figures would probably be doubled or even tripled, P spokesmen say.

New Studio Dance Theatre Auditions Are Scheduled

Rhonda Simmons, director and choreographer of the newly formed Studio Dance Theatre, has announced auditions for the production of "Twins the Night Before Christmas," will be held Saturday, Sept. 27, and Monday, Sept. 28.

The auditions will be held at the Karen Rodda School of Dance, Stevensville. Those wishing further information may call the school.

The production will be presented Dec. 6 and 7.

The Studio Dance Theatre is a non-profit ballet and modern dance company whose objectives are that area dance students learn the theatrical and performing areas of dance and promotion of performing arts in the Southwestern Michigan area.

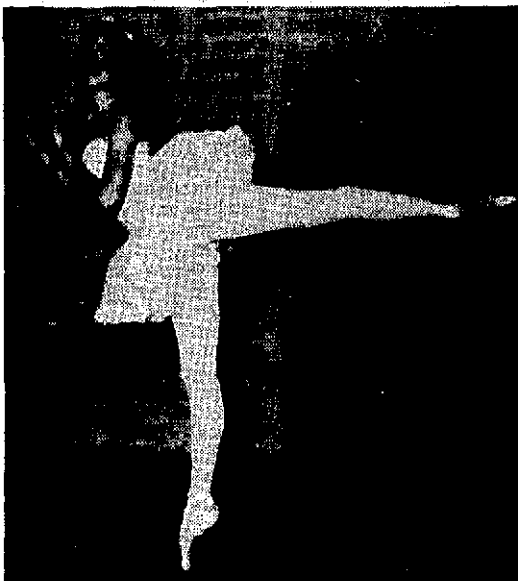

The auditions are open to all interested dance students in the area including intermediate through professional with a minimum age of 12.

Miss Simmons is a graduate of Lakeshore high school and is beginning her fifth year of teaching at the Karen Rodda School of Dance. She received her dance training from Billie Jacobson, formerly of this area, Karen Rodda and the Ken Breitbard and Judy Joseph duo of Michigan City, Ind.

She has just returned from studying in New York City at the Harkness School of Ballet, City Center Joffrey Ballet and Jazz with Luigi.

She has been accepted into the Beaux Arts Ballet company of South Bend, which is directed by Carolyn Hine.

Miss Simmons choreographed the "Lakeshore Junior Miss" pageant, which she will do again this year, and also choreographed the Lakeshore Summer Theatre production of "Gypsy," and assisted with the Cayman college production of "Godspell."

APPLE HARVEST IS PLENTIFUL

Autumn Appetites Are Hardy

Comes autumn and there's an urge to change the breakfast routine. Appetites that lagged during hot weather are no longer satisfied with fruit and toast. More substantial food is needed and an Apple/Sausage Coffeecake offers welcome change.

This is a quick coffeecake made with pancake batter. It consists of a two-layered pancake with a filling of fresh apple slices and sausage. Serve it directly from the skillet cut into pie-shaped wedges with apple butter or fresh applesauce as an accompaniment.

APPLE/SAUSAGE COFFEECAKE

8 link sausages or sausage patties
2 large tart apples, peeled, cored and sliced
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup pancake batter
1 tablespoon butter

Place broiler rack five-six inches below heat. Turn broiler to high.

Saute sausages in a large skillet, about five minutes, until well browned. Drain and keep warm. Pour off fat from skillet, add apples sliced 1/4-inch thick. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Saute one to two minutes until apples just lose their crispness, but are still firm. Set aside but do not cover.

Place the butter in a well seasoned nine-inch iron skillet and heat over burner. (Test with a drop of water. When the water "dances" before evaporating, pan is ready.) Pour in enough batter to cover the bottom of the pan about 1/4-inch. Cook three to four minutes over moderate heat until batter sets and top is dry. (Do not turn.) Arrange the sausages on the pancake and cover them with apples, distributing evenly. Pour the remaining batter over the apples and place under the broiler until nicely browned, about 8 to 10 minutes. Test the center for dryness with a tester or toothpick. If cake browns too fast, before the center is done, lower heat and continue cooking. Remove from broiler — brown edges with spatula — serve in pie-shaped wedges. Serve with butter, and well seasoned applesauce or apple butter. Serves six.

CHERRY APPLESAUCE

1 tart apple
1/2 cup apple cider
One-third to 1/2 cup sugar

1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ginger
Pare, core and slice apples, place in saucepan with cider. Simmer until apples are tender (20 to 30 minutes). Stir in sugar, salt and ginger. Cook one minute longer. Makes six servings.

Cookies, one of America's all-time favorites no matter whether they are large, small, filled or unfilled, sweet or semi-sweet come in an endless variety.

APPLESAUCE OATIES

1 1/2 cups quick oats, uncooked
1/2 cup unsifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder

sweet chocolate morsels
1 cup raisins
1 cup chopped nuts
Preheat oven to 375 degrees. In small bowl, combine oats, flour, salt, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg and baking soda; set aside. In large bowl, combine butter, brown sugar and granulated sugar; beat until creamy. Beat in egg. Gradually blend in flour mixture alternately with applesauce. Stir in chocolate morsels, raisins and nuts. Drop by level measuring tablespoonfuls onto greased cookie sheets. Bake at 375 degrees for 14 minutes. Makes five dozen 2 1/4-inch cookies.

If you have a desire to travel and to leave humdrum routine tel combination of marinated celery, cucumber and Golden Delicious slices, and from the mid-east a salad of oranges, lettuce chunks and grated apples, with no dressing but heavy cream. The Apple-Herring salad is a classic from Scandinavia and nearly a meal-in-one besides.

FLOWER APPLE SALAD

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup vinegar
2 Golden Delicious or Winesap apples
3 cucumbers
1 large stalk celery
Shredded lettuce
Combine sugar and vinegar. Quarter, core and thinly slice the unpared apples crosswise. Strip cucumbers with tines of fork and slice into thin circles. Slice celery slantwise; pour vinegar-sugar mixture over cut fruit and vegetables. Marinate at least one hour in refrigerator. Arrange full beds of shredded lettuce on six individual salad plates. Drain marinated mixture. Arrange cucumber slices in wide circle on lettuce, place a second circle (inside cucumber slices) of the apple slices, petal-fashion. Heap celery in center for a flower effect. Makes six servings.

PERSIAN APPLE SALAD

1 small head lettuce
2 large oranges
1 Red or Golden Delicious or Winesap apple, pared
4 tablespoons sugar
1 cup heavy cream
Lettuce leaves
Lemon juice
Cut lettuce into bite-size chunks. Peel orange, section and cut in small pieces; combine with lettuce. Grate two of the pared apples directly into the salad. Combine sugar and cream, mix well; pour over salad and toss lightly. Serve on lettuce leaf. Slice remaining apple, brush slices with lemon juice and garnish salad with apple slices. Makes six servings.

SCANDINAVIAN APPLE-HERRING SALAD

1 cup cooked potatoes, salted and diced
1 tablespoon mayonnaise, mixed with 2 tablespoons light cream
1 Red or Golden Delicious apple, cored, sliced and partially-pared
1 cup (8-oz. jar) herring in wine and vinegar sauce
1 cup sliced beets
Salad greens
Whole, dry pickled beets

Apple slices, unpared
Lemon juice
Place potatoes in a bowl. Marinate in mayonnaise-cream mixture for a few minutes. Gently fold in diced apples (some left unpared, for color), herring and sliced beets. Line a platter or bowl with salad greens, mound the salad on the greens and garnish with whole, tiny pickled beets and apple slices which have been dipped in lemon juice.

A hearty dumpling dessert proves versatile. One with peanut butter and apple filling is an ideal offering after a pleasant evening meal. With milk, it offers high protein and essential vitamins as a breakfast treat.

PEANUT BUTTER APPLE DUMPLINGS WITH LEMON SAUCE

Crust
4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
5 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
One-third cup peanut butter
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups milk

Filling
6 cooking apples, peeled and cored whole
1/2 cup raisins
6 tablespoons sugar

Sauce
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 can (8-oz.) frozen concentrated lemonade, undiluted
1 1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

In a bowl, mix flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in peanut butter and butter until crumbs are like coarse cornmeal. Stir in milk and stir until dough cleans the bowl. Place dough on a heavily floured surface and knead a few times until a smooth ball. Roll out dough on a floured surface to an oblong 12 by 8 inches. Cut into six six-inch squares. Place one apple on each square. Fill center with raisins and sprinkle with sugar. Bring opposite corners over ap-pies and pinch edges together. Place dumplings on a greased cookie sheet. Turn back corners so dumplings so top of apple is exposed. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for 40 to 45 minutes or until apples are easily pierced. In a saucepan mix cornstarch and lemonade. Stir in water and butter. Stir over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Serve dumplings hot with hot sauce spooned over them. Makes six servings.

Take advantage of the good apple harvest and whip up a

APPLE SAUSAGE COFFEECAKE

New dish with an Eastern twist. Bomlay scalloped apples are easy to prepare and have a different flavor due to the blending of ginger, curry powder, dry mustard and almonds. Serve with your favorite chicken, pork or duck dish.

BOMBAY SCALLOPED APPLES

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup molasses
One-third cup fresh lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon curry powder
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard

1/4 teaspoon salt
5 cups sliced, pared, cored, cooking apples
1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds
Melt butter in small saucepan. Add molasses, lemon juice, ginger, curry powder, dry mustard and salt. Mix well. Arrange apples in a shallow two-quart baking dish. Pour molasses mixture over apples. Sprinkle with almonds. Bake, covered, in 375 degree oven 40 minutes, or until tender, basting occasionally with liquid in baking dish. Serve with chicken, pork or duck. Makes six servings.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Children Aren't 'Waffles'

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 35 years old and just gave birth to my second child, a boy. My husband was so crazy to have a son he couldn't see straight.

Our little girl is now four. She is hyperactive and very difficult. She pinches, hits and bites people. This has been going on for two years and I can't seem to stop her.

Now my husband wants to put the girl up for adoption because he's afraid the boy might pick up her bad habits. We've had some battles over this because I don't think it's the right thing to do.

Will you please try to get through to the nut? I've never heard of a father wanting to do such a thing. — Mother Of Prince Philip II

Dear Mother: Tell your lunatic husband that children aren't waffles. You don't throw the first one out just because it doesn't turn out the way you'd like it to.

Your daughter needs special attention. Some hyperactive children have emotional problems that can be resolved by tutoring. Others have a chemical imbalance that can be regulated by medication. Take her to the nearest university hospital for evaluation. Too many so-called hyperkinetic kids are turned into little junkies because it's easier to medicate them than spend the time required to make them feel loved.

Times Change

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a widow 60 years of age, have been respectable all my life and live alone in a small apartment. I own a medium-size black-and-white TV which gets all the channels.

A new neighbor has been very pleasant to me. I like his personality. He has invited me to his home so we can watch his color TV which he says is the finest.

Should I go? I don't want him to think I'm a loose woman. — Need Your Guidance

Dear Need: My, how times have changed! It used to be, "Come over and see my etchings."

Invite the gentleman to your apartment for some homemade apple pie. The two of you can watch the same shows on your black-and-white set.

Tell Child

Dear Ann Landers: My 12-year-old niece comes from a well-to-do family. Ella has everything money can buy and her parents are very generous with her. She is a studious young person and has always made fine grades. So far as I know Ella has never been in any trouble.

This child enjoys coming to my home to visit and I like having her. But within the last four months I have proof that she has stolen at least $50 from my purse. The losses occurred at three different times. The first was a $20 bill; the second was two $10 bills and just yesterday she took $10, perhaps $15.

Do I have the right to tell her about this without telling her parents? Can Ella be stealing in order to save money to buy expensive gifts for people she wishes to impress? Please help me do right by this child. I am — Terribly Disturbed.

Dear T.D.: A 12-year-old who steals is trying to compensate for things she feels she is being cheated of — usually love. Recent studies have shown that more rich kids steal than the so-called "disadvantaged."

Tell Ella you know what she has done. Leave her parents out of it. Be sympathetic. Suggest that she ask her parents to get her into therapy. No need to tell them about the stealing. She could just say she is depressed and wants to talk to someone about her feelings of inadequacy. You'd be doing the child a tremendous favor by handling the problem in this manner. Good luck.

Don't flunk your chemistry test. Love is more than one set of glands calling to another. If you have trouble making a distinction you need Ann's booklet, "Love or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and 50 cents in coin to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Out Into The World

"Well," I said to my husband as he crawled into bed, "I hope you're satisfied. Your son is gone."

"You act like it was my idea," he said. "Don't tell me you didn't encourage him to leave."

"All I said was he is old enough to develop some kind of independence."

"If anything happens to him, let it be on your conscience."

"What kind of a crack is that? You went along with it."

"Only because I didn't want him to remember us screaming and shouting at one another. If he just had someone with him."

"Stop worrying. If everything weren't going well, we'd hear."

"The dog misses him already," I said. "He's in the utility room whining."

"Oh for crying out loud!" I went by his room tonight. It was so... so picked up. I never knew he had a double bed before."

"Go to sleep and stop torturing yourself." "Did you hear something?" I asked, boiling upright. "What did it sound like?" he asked. "I don't know." "What do you mean you don't know? Everything has to sound like something for pete's sake."

"If I hear it again, I'll tell you."

"If you don't know what it is, then how will you know when you hear it again?"

"Are you trying to pick a fight with me, because if your conscience is bothering you, take it out on someone else. Admit it! You're worried, aren't you?"

"No." "You're worried that you sent your son out into a world crawling with murderers, perverts, sex fiends and robbers who would tap you on the head with a tire iron for 35 cents."

"Will you go to sleep?" "Did you leave the front door open?"

"No." "I'm going down and open it."

Just in case he should come home in the middle of the night. You know how he never carries his keys. "That tears it," said my husband throwing back the covers and sticking his head out of the bedroom window. "Hey Buddy!" he yelled in the darkness. "Everything okay out there?"

A sleepy head poked through the tent flap. "Aw c'mon Dad, you promised you'd let me camp all by myself."

Dr. Lester Coleman

About three times a year I get an attack of bursitis in my right shoulder. It comes on suddenly. Is there some way that this can be prevented?

Mr. T.H.T., Calif.

Dear Mr. T.: Any member of the "bursitis club" knows how miserable it can be to have an attack of acute bursitis.

The pain is excruciating. This, coupled with the inability to move the arm, can mean almost total incapacitation.

A few things are known about the cause of bursitis in the shoulder. Lifting a heavy weight, an injury, even an off-balance swing of a tennis racket or a golf club can set bursitis in motion. Exposure to draft may be responsible, too.

A bursa is a flat sac that normally contains a lubricating fluid. There are about 150 bursae in various parts of the body. They act as the lubricating, ball-bearing system.

Bones, tendons, joints and muscles that constantly move against each other are protected against the irritation of friction by these well-placed bursae.

When the bursa becomes inflamed, the need for rest is automatically imposed on the body. The sharp pain is the body's protective device to make sure that the shoulder joint will remain immobile.

The ideal way to prevent recurring attacks of bursitis is to try to track down its cause and then avoid it.

More and more attention is being paid to the possibility that going may be one of the unsuspected reasons for bursitis, especially if there is no evident source of injury to the shoulder joint. This should be ruled out since you have recurring attacks.

When the first twinges of pain occur, don't try to "work out" the pain with exercise, massage or manipulation. This tends only to precipitate an agonizing attack. Rest of the shoulder joint is urgent, preferably with a sling.

Today the use of cortisone, ACTH, X-ray treatments, ultrasonic vibrations, application of cold packs and injections of anesthetics into the joints can relieve the pain and speed recovery.

It is surprising how often people overlook the fact that the case may be using a machine like a drill press, or twisting their arms in unusual ways while at work. Try to review all the forces that exert pressure on your shoulder, either at work, in sports, or in the home.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
There is no absolute rule about the correct play at many notrump contracts.

Once dummy's trick of hearts holds the first jack, South sees that if the diamond finesse is on everything, will be fine. If it loses and East holds the ace of spades, he is likely to be down two tricks.

One declarer in an important team match decided to run the five club tricks right away on the theory that East and West might discard badly. They didn't! East signalled in spades and West never let a heart go. Then, when West got in with the king of diamonds he led a spade. East took his ace and returned a heart and set declarer two tricks.

The other South decided to start with the diamond finesse. West was in and led his seven of spades. The four was played from dummy. East thought a while and played the jack, whereupon South made his contract with an overtrick.

West blamed East for the debacle, but we rather blame West. If he had led the 10 of spades, East would have had no excuse, but that seven-spot lead could have been third best from king-10-seven.

Ask the Jacobys

A sad letter from Vermont reads in part: "Sitting South, I opened one spade with:

♠ A K 7 3 2 ♣ K 9 8 ♦ 2 ♠ A 10 4 3. West bid two hearts. North and East passed and I went to two spades. This came around to East who doubled. We were in the soup then, but even more so when my partner rescued me in three diamonds. Will you comment?"

Our correspondent should have passed. It is always dangerous to rebid a five-card suit opposite a partner who has not bid anything.

Sara Moore Has 'Cloudy' Memory Of Ford Shooting

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sara Moore, ordered to undergo sanity tests after firing a pistol at President Ford, has only a "cloudy" memory of the assassination attempt, her attorney says.

U.S. Magistrate Owen Woodruff on Tuesday directed that the 45-year-old divorced mother of one be taken to San Diego on Friday and given psychiatric tests at the Metropolitan Correctional Center there. He said results would be reported to him by Nov. 18.

Arrested immediately after she fired at Ford as he emerged from a downtown hotel Monday, Mrs. Moore was held in lieu of $500,000 bail on a federal charge of trying to assassinate the President. If convicted, she faces a possible life sentence.

An ex-Marine deflected her chrome-plated .38-calibre revolver and the shot missed the President, slightly injuring a bystander.

Public defender James Hewitt told newsmen after Tuesday's hearing that Mrs. Moore's state of mind is "vague" and that she is "cloudy" about details of the incident Monday.

"I told her a mental examination probably would be ordered, and she seemed resigned to the fact," Hewitt said. "Her spirits are as good as could be expected."

"I don't know whether she's competent to stand trial," said U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. He said he sought the sanity tests partly because of "the bizarre nature of the offense" and partly because of "certain information from federal officials about Mrs. Moore," which he declined to specify.

Hewitt said the transfer to San Diego was delayed until Friday to give him time to consider an appeal and to give Mrs. Moore time to make arrangements for her son, Frederick Aalberg, 9, currently in the Youth Guidance Center.

"She's a mother and she naturally is concerned about her child," Hewitt said.

Woman Official To Attack Bias

DETROIT (AP) — Dolores Rozzi thinks many Detroit employers are biased against women and she intends to do something about it.

Mrs. Rozzi, the new director of the Detroit office of the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, said in a seminar Tuesday she intends to begin filing suits against some of the area's largest companies.

"I intend to do everything possible to litigate big cases in Detroit, to set examples, to show employers we're not a paper tiger," she said.

Mrs. Rozzi, who formerly directed the Pittsburgh regional office of the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission, said she hopes to expand the Detroit staff beyond its current 35 persons.

She said the Detroit office has a "very heavy case load." The number is in the thousands.

Mrs. Rozzi did not name any specific companies she might be eyeing as targets for job discrimination suits.

During a panel discussion, however, Risa Grossman, an assembly line worker at the Cadillac Motor Division of General Motors Corp., gave an example of discrimination on her job.

She said, "One of the men told me, 'If you were my lady, you wouldn't be here.' I told him, 'That's why I'm not anybody's lady.'"

Mrs. Rozzi said 43 per cent of all bachelor degrees and 40 per cent of all post-graduate degrees are held by women.

In contrast, she said, 86 per cent of the jobs paying over $15,000 a year are held by white males and the other 4 per cent are divided among women and minorities.

"The good jobs are frequently filled by referral, by word of mouth, passed around lunchrooms and country clubs, where you don't find women and minorities," she said.

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Officials said they would attempt an aerial spraying of Windsor today after unfavorable wind conditions forced cancellation of the insecticide project Tuesday.

The action is intended to combat an outbreak of encephalitis believed carried by mosquitoes.

Two Plead Guilty In Escape Plot

DETROIT (AP) — Two of six alleged conspirators who helped Dale Otto Remling escape by helicopter from Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson on June 6 have pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges.

Susan Hill, 20, of Webberville, faces a maximum of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine after pleading guilty Tuesday before U.S. District Court Judge Charles Joiner.

Miss Hill said she drove another of the alleged conspirators, Morris Colosky of Webberville, to an airport at Plymouth, where Colosky rented the helicopter used in the escape.

Joann Van Patten, 20, also of Webberville, pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy before Judge Joiner last week. Miss Van Patten said she drove a getaway car for Colosky after the helicopter landed several miles from the prison.

Charges of aiding and abetting air piracy against Miss Hill and Miss Van Patten will be dropped when the judge sentences the two women in about six weeks, said Richard L. Delonis, who is representing the office of U.S. Atty. Ralph Guy.

Secret Service Shakeup May Follow Ford Attacks

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — As a result of the two assassination attempts against President Ford, Congress is pushing its first investigation of the Secret Service and its performance in protecting presidents.

Alarmed that a woman who told police last weekend she might "test the system" could be allowed within 40 feet of Ford on a San Francisco street, a Senate panel is planning to question the director of the Secret Service next week to determine if changes should be made in the agency's protection program.

The congressional probe comes as the Secret Service itself is drawing up new protective procedures. Presidential Counsel Philip Buchen said "at least partial recommendations" for revamping presidential protection will be submitted to Ford before his next trip from Washington. The President is scheduled to visit Chicago next Tuesday.

San Francisco police said Tuesday that they had warned the Secret Service about Sara Jane Moore after she was charged with illegal possession of a gun and after she said she might "test the system."

San Francisco police said they asked Secret Service if they wanted the woman held but were told it wouldn't be necessary. Secret Service agents then interviewed Mrs. Moore and decided not to place her under surveillance. The next day, she allegedly shot at Ford.

Federal law makes it a felony to threaten to kill or harm the president. While the Secret Service has no legal power to detain a person who hasn't committed a crime, it can conduct surveillance of any one suspected of posing a threat to the President.

Secret Service spokesman Kenneth Lynch said the agency's options are limited by constitutional protections of civil liberties, "the same as any other law enforcement agency."

The Senate investigation is being conducted by the appropriations subcommittee on Treasury, Postal Service and general government, which handles funding for the Secret Service. The panel plans to begin its probe Tuesday, calling H. Stuart Knight, the Secret Service director.

Chairman Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., said he was informed that Mrs. Moore was not included in the 47,000-name Secret Service computer list of persons who have shown an unusual interest in the President or are suspected of being a danger to him.

Meanwhile, White House staff chief Donald Rumsfeld, who was standing behind Ford when the gunshot was fired, said: "I saw the gun glistering and shining in the sun" and that "there was no question in my mind that this was an assassination attempt," according to an interview in the Chicago Sun-Times.

The president of the American Psychiatric Association, Dr. Judd Marmor, warned that the two assassination attempts might trigger others. "I think this entire thing will probably run a certain kind of wave like a contagion for a while," he said.

Program Triples Warbler Count

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Kirtland's warbler, whose endangered existence forced the National Guard to curtail artillery practice at Camp Grayling this summer, more than tripled its population during the past mating season, a federal official says.

John Byelich, chief of a U.S. endangered species recovery team, says as many as 1,200 warblers are now flying to their wintering grounds in the Bahamas. That compares with about 350 of the birds which came back to Michigan last spring.

That count was arrived at by warbler expert Harold Mayfield, who counted the number of chicks found in known nests and multiplied by the known breeding pairs and rearing success, said Byelich.

The entire world population of the bluish-gray and yellow birds breed in Michigan.

Byelich said the successful breeding season apparently was linked to a spring campaign of trapping the cowbird, an enemy of the warbler.

Cowbirds leave their eggs in warbler nests and leave the job of raising the chicks to the warbler. When the cowbird chick grows old enough, it pushes the warbler offspring out of the nest.

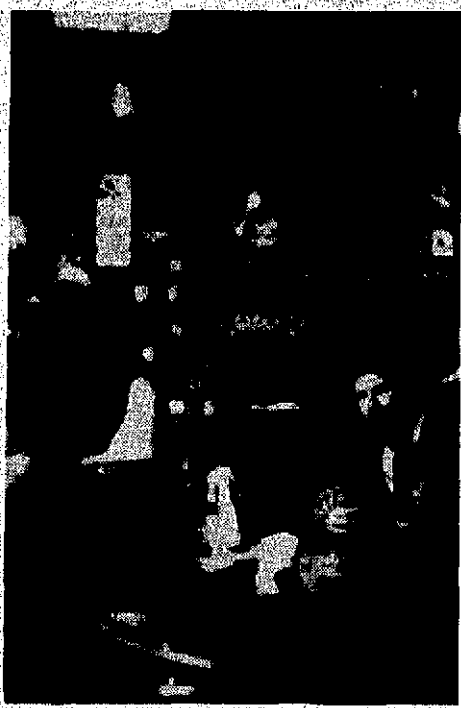

This year between 1,500 and 4,000 cowbirds were removed from the warbler's nesting grounds in Crawford and Roscommon counties before the warbler eggs were laid.

Just one cowbird egg was found in a sample of 32 or 33 nests, Byelich said. "That means the nests as a whole were likely 98 per cent free of cowbird problems."

Because of favorable conditions, the warblers also were able to renege this summer and raise a second brood.

Officials said they also found a new nesting area in Ogemaw County where a 1947 fire resulted in a new crop of small pines which are believed ideal for nesting.

The Michigan National Guard was forced to stop artillery practice at Camp Grayling this summer when about 30 per cent of the warbler population set up nests right in the middle of the tank training area.

Old West Buff Turns His Home Into A Museum

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Roy "Gypsy Jack" Steffenson of Flint lives in a dream world — the Old West.

Gypsy Jack is literally surrounded from floor to ceiling by the memorabilia of the Old West. He has collected by frequent forays out West. His first floor, instead of a living room, dining room and kitchen, houses a saloon, a general store and a barber shop - dentist office. His basement contains recreations of a jail, a funeral parlor, a Wells Fargo office and a Mexican cantina.

And, out in the yard around his wood frame house is an old buggy and tombstones planted in large rocks. One tombstone reads: "Luke Dalton hanged 1890." Another with a final number missing from the date reads: "188 Reb Hillister died with his boots on."

Steffenson said he began collecting Western objects when he was 14. He was reared in Minnesota, where he visited a Western museum and got hooked on the subject. Now, he makes frequent trips out West to buy objects from the period after the Civil War to the late 1890s.

When Steffenson is not tending bar, or donning the green shade of a Wells Fargo clerk, or playing poker in his saloon, or locking up a friend in the calaboose, he faces reality as a janitor at a local automotive plant. He is a collector in the purest sense. He seldom parts with anything unless it's something he already has or can trade for something he needs for his collection.

Steffenson's house is not a public museum, but he said he does show people through it once in awhile. Friends tell him he should show publicly or he'll be ripped off. But, he likes to share his hobby with others.

DOING BUSINESS

BOSTON (AP) — What is claimed to be the first official major Bicentennial exhibition to open in the U.S. is doing a landslide business at the box office here.

It's the 300-seat, $1.2-million "World's Fair" type Bicentennial Pavilion at Prudential Center.

Dr. Herald Habenicht, director of the Andrews University Medical Center, will be in charge of the five-day series. With him will be Bert Anderson, chief respiratory therapist at Memorial hospital and district board member of the Michigan Lung association, and Dr. John Berecz, clinical psychologist at Andrews university.

Oronoko Township Target Of Anti-Zoning Court Suit

An Oronoko township man has filed suit against the township in Berrien Circuit court seeking an injunction which would prohibit the township from enforcing a zoning ordinance and also seeking an order from the court declaring the ordinance unconstitutional.

The plaintiff, James L. Betcheck, of 1828 Rose Hill road, also asks the court to determine whether the ordinance is valid, and seeks an injunction prohibiting further prosecution of him in Fifth District court pending the outcome of the circuit court suit.

Betcheck pleaded innocent in district court to a charge alleging he operated a business in his home in violation of the zoning ordinance. The case is still awaiting trial.

Betcheck claims that Oronoko's zoning ordinance places his house in an area zoned agricultural, but charges the ordinance and zoning maps were not adopted properly. The suit claims the township initiated criminal charges against Betcheck for using his residence for business purposes, a violation of the ordinance. Betcheck claims in the suit that he converted his garage for a work area in which records for his business, Jameson Chemical Co., are stored and a secretary works.

The suit contends the work area in the garage is comparable with other businesses in Betcheck's neighborhood, and that the zoning ordinance as applied to him is unconstitutional. Betcheck also asks the court to issue an injunction against the township, prohibiting it from enforcing its ordinance against him.

Lansing 'Bomb' Turns Out To Be Only Box Of Sand

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A "bomb" taken from a high-rise downtown office building Tuesday turned out to be a box filled with sand, city police said.

The discovery of the suspected bomb led to evacuation of the building as the Michigan State Police bomb squad carefully removed the device to the countryside for examination and dusting for fingerprints.

State Police Sgt. David Townsend who carried out the dummy bomb, said it appeared sophisticated enough to be real.

Law enforcement officials said they had no information on who planted the device and had no suspects.

The device was found in a third-floor fire extinguisher well in the Michigan National Tower, a 22-story building across the street from the state Capitol.

An official of Michigan National Bank said the device was found by an employee of the bank's trust department early Tuesday afternoon. He and police officials said there apparently was no bomb threat by telephone.

The bank official said the device measured about six inches by six inches by a foot long, and had a clock face on the top. A wire led out of the device to a ground on the side of the extinguisher well, he said.

The device reportedly was ticking, and two officials said it was apparently set to go off at 7:30 p.m.

Law enforcement officials were notified, and soon the building was evacuated and the area cordoned off. A Lansing police officer said the device would be "trains" in liquid nitrogen before being moved to keep it from going off.

Townsend, garbed in heavy protective clothing and a helmet, put the device in a State Police truck which had a heavy canister mounted on its rear. The device was taken to Rose Lake Research Center east of Lansing, where State Police maintain an area for bomb examination and explosion work.

Police kept the building vacant as they combed it again for other devices as a precaution.

Milliken Has No Choice

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken said Tuesday he will not endorse a Republican candidate for the Senate prior to next August's primary election.

Milliken said possible primary campaign battles among Republicans will show the party has vitality. In 1970, Republicans desiring to avoid a primary election fight selected Lenore Romney as a "consensus" candidate. She lost by a landslide to incumbent Democratic Sen. Philip Hart.

Over the weekend at a party leadership conference, Republicans repeatedly emphasized their desire for an open primary.

"I have no plans whatsoever to endorse anyone and I see no combination of events to alter that basic approach," Milliken said. "I have no plans other than to ensure that it's a wide open primary. I think that will be good and healthy for the party .... It's got to work its way."

Hart's announcement that he will not seek re-election has thrown the Senate seat up for grabs.

DISTROPHY PATIENTS

MD Unit Pays For Flu Shots

The Southwest Michigan Chapter of Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America has advised dystrophy patients to consult their physicians on being immunized against influenza.

Robert L. Hickman, chapter president, said cost of inoculation will be paid by the chapter services program. Physicians should send bills for the shots to the chapter office, 2011 Sunset drive, St. Joseph.

Hickman noted there is grave danger from respiratory diseases which cause congestion in bodies weakened by muscular dystrophy.

He said there are 66 patients in southwestern Michigan served by the chapter. Thirty-five others died in the past 14 years.

Township Board Reviews Sewer Pact, Ordinance

NEW BUFFALO — New Buffalo township board last night spent 3½ hours reviewing a proposed Galien river sanitary sewer district contract and a proposed township ordinance which would make initial hook-ups into the system mandatory.

The contract with Berrien county outlines the costs and the responsibilities for each of the three units of government affected by the proposed $20,197,950 sewer system. The system would serve New Buffalo township and city and Chikaming township. No action was taken on either the contract or ordinance.

The project will include construction of a sewage treatment plant and installation of main lines and collecting sewers for each municipality.

The project, according to Joseph Svehla, township supervisor, was ordered by the Michigan Supreme court in 1969 to prevent raw sewage from the area from flowing into the Galien river. It will be financed by federal and state grants and three separate bond issues for each municipality to pay its share.

Svehla said grants for the project would total $11,707,950 and the municipalities would pay the remainder: New Buffalo township, $1,500,000; Chikaming township, $5,585,000; and New Buffalo city, $1,335,000.

Signing of the contract will bind the township to pay $1,500,000 to the county in annual installments over a period of 28 years, with interest not to exceed 8 per cent per year on the unpaid balance, Svehla said.

It is the present intention of the township board not to levy any additional taxes, although the board has the power to do so, to meet its obligation. The board plans to pay off any bonded indebtedness by making sewer connection charges and sewer service charges.

Svehla said it is hoped the project will get underway in April, 1976, and is expected to take two years to complete.

Sewer rates for township residents connected to the system will include a $1,800 tap-in fee plus $204 a year for debt retirement, and operational, maintenance and treatment costs.

Initially, system would be constructed in the New Buffalo township's portion of the northwestern part (Union Pier area) of the township and would serve some 357 township customers. The balance of the system is pegged to be completed by 1980.

Under the ordinance requiring mandatory connection, customers would have six months to hook-up to the system.

Svehla said according to law, township residents in phase-one of construction must hook up to the system, as mandated by court order. The balance of the system has not been ordered by the court at this time, Svehla said.

"The only reason we got into this thing (the sewer project) was due to the court order," Svehla said. "We (the township) were forced into it and must pay for it."

Svehla said that to his knowledge neither the Chikaming township board or the New Buffalo city commission have signed the contract with the county yet, but indicated it was "just a matter of time."

In order to fully explain to township residents the project's costs and implications, a public hearing has been scheduled at the township hall for tonight at 8 p.m. The project engineers will also be on hand to answer questions from the public.

Arrest 2 In Watervliet Burglary

Two 16-year-old Watervliet boys were taken into custody by Watervliet police and Berrien sheriff's officers Tuesday and charged with the Monday break-in of a Watervliet home.

Sheriff's officers said $70 of $75 taken from the Robert Sykes home, 307 East Parsons, was recovered, along with two handguns allegedly taken from one of seven other break-ins in the northern Berrien county area.

One of the boys was lodged in the Berrien county detention home and the other was turned over to the custody of his parents, pending petitioning to juvenile court.

Buchanan Grigger Held In Rape Case

BUCHANAN — Willie C. Brown, 18, 315 Bluff street, Buchanan, was arrested by city police here yesterday on a charge of criminal sexual assault in the third degree (formerly statutory rape) involving a 14-year-old Buchanan girl.

Brown, a star running back for the Buchanan high school football team, was lodged in the city jail without bond.

Police said the arrest stemmed from an Aug. 8 complaint filed by the girl's father. He claimed his daughter was 4½ months pregnant.

A warrant for Brown's arrest was authorized by the Berrien county prosecutor's office yesterday.

MSU May Limit New Students

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State University officials say they may limit the number of student admissions beginning in January in order to ease overcrowding. Clifton Wharton, president of the 45,000-student university, will recommend Friday that the board of trustees authorize a limitation on incoming students for winter and spring terms. The university would be the first in the state to put a halt to enrollment growth, though enrollments across the country are peaking. "We are overcrowded," said Robert Perrin, vice president for university relations. "And apparently the legislature hasn't recognized our numbers in their level of funding. When the legislature takes the position of not funding 3,000 students, it puts a tremendous strain on the faculty, the staff and the facilities here," Perrin said. An $89.1 million state appropriation to MSU was based on the inaccurate assumption that enrollment this fall would be only about 42,000, despite warnings from MSU that it would be higher, Perrin charged.

A Fourth Are Winners

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — About one-fourth of the cases closed last month by the Michigan Department of Civil Rights were decided in favor of those who charged discrimination, a department report shows. The report, presented Tuesday to the Civil Rights Commission, says 94 of 366 cases closed in August were settled in favor of complainants, but 128 complaints against employers and institutions were dismissed due to insufficient evidence of bias. The remaining cases were dropped for a variety of reasons, including decisions by complainants to withdraw their charges. Persons charging discrimination received a total $206,106 last month. The amount includes cash settlements and back pay for those who were hired, promoted or reinstated to their jobs.

School Strike Ends

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Custodians and cafeteria workers have agreed to go back to work after a two-day strike against the East Lansing school district. Lawyers for the workers and school district agreed the employees would return to work while a new labor contract was being negotiated under supervision of Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Donald Reising. The refusal to work Monday and Tuesday by members of Local 1390 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees did not shut down schools. But parents had to form car pools to get their children to classes when the district's 14 bus drivers refused to cross picket lines.

DEATH THREAT AT NILES Milliken: 'I Wore Vest'

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

LANSING — Gov. William G. Milliken disclosed Tuesday that he wore a bullet-proof vest under his business suit while handshaking along the main street of Niles late last year.

The governor wore the vest during the Oct. 5, 1974, Apple Festival parade because of a threat received a day earlier.

Sgt. Richard Kolenda of the Niles State Police post reported a telephone caller said:

"I don't have long to talk, so listen closely. There is a hit contract on Gov. Milliken. If he takes that ride (in the parade) it will be his last one."

No attempt against Milliken occurred, however.

The governor's disclosure came during his comments on the vulnerability of public officials.

Public officials must face assassination risks and President Ford probably can't dodge public exposure for fear of death, Gov. Milliken said.

"It is a risk of public life," he said.

"I don't think about it," he said when asked about the vulnerability of public officials.

President Ford "can't hide behind a shield or a bulletproof vest. If someone really wants to get a public official, I honestly don't believe he can be stopped."

"It is a tenet of democratic society that you never elevate

Official Gets Rate Protests

Gordon, his wife, his green wheelbarrow, a camera crew and director called on Gov. William G. Milliken and PSC Chairman-designate Daniel Demlow.

Milliken told Gordon: "a very substantial" number of letters have come into the executive office, opposing the 20-cent charge.

"There is widespread concern," Milliken acknowledged.

Demlow said the commission is "vitaly concerned" with public opinion and will remember the mail when a final decision is made, probably about mid-November.

Despite the mail that fluttered around his feet and wafted about his small, cubicle office, Ostot refused to budge from his contention that the average residential telephone-user won't object to the 20-cent information charge. Such a customer actually will gain 30 to 35 cents a month because of the charge, he contended.

About 95 per cent of telephone users find it fast in The Yellow Pages rather than by dialing the information operator, Ostot contended.

Accord Reached At Decatur

DECATUR — Negotiating teams for the Decatur Education, association and Decatur school board have reached a tentative agreement on a new two-year master teaching contract.

Supt. Wayne Hellenga said late this morning that details of the tentative agreement will be announced as soon as the DEA and the school board ratify the contract.

would keep her from taking advantage of the second chance at Ford.

"She made a statement that when she was on her way to the St. Francis Hotel, she was driving fast on the freeway and loading the gun at the same time, hoping she'd be stopped," one policeman said.

But she wasn't.

Mrs. Moore fired one shot at Ford as he left the hotel. A Marine veteran in the crowd spoiled her aim and the shot went wild.

HOW TO CUT LOSSES

He said only persons who use the information operator will pay for the service.

Ostot acknowledged his estimates were based on a figure of $10 million supplied by Michigan Bell as the amount of money that might be saved if a charge is allowed for information calls.

Ostot worked for Michigan Bell for 22 years before joining the PSC about five years ago.

He acknowledged he is eligible for a phone company pension of just over $300 a month at age 65. But he insisted his pension does not affect his recommendations to the PSC.

The pension, he said, is vested and fully funded so no future developments, including rate hikes, can change it.

"Demlow is expected to complete a review this week of possible conflicts of interest among staffers who hold pension rights in the utilities they are supposed to regulate."

Gordon recently complained in a newspaper article that the pension holders were in conflict of interest.

Ostot said his observation that citizens are not upset by the proposed charge was based on a series of public hearings, where interest appeared to him to be lukewarm. However, he said concern was voiced about an $85 million rate hike the utility is requesting.

As for the mail humped on his office table and littering his floor, Ostot said, "The public has certainly responded to Mr. Gordon's plea. It shows at the moment that the people who wrote in are upset."

"The public at large, the basic rate-payers, I feel, would not be that upset if they knew they would get about 35 cents a month off their bill. I don't think the public at large is that upset."

Gordon noted that a person would get three information calls free but would pay 40 cents for just two additional calls a month.

The charge would go into effect about 18 months after winning PSC approval, Ostot said.

Lake Weed Foes Can Call Own Shot

COLOMA — A special assessment roll for a weed control program in Paw Paw lake does not require township board approval before being final.

The Paw Paw Lake Improvement board, through creation by the township and neighboring Watervliet township, has the right to make the final determination, according to John Matthews, board secretary.

Based on information supplied by an employee in the Coloma township hall, this newspaper yesterday reported anyone so high that they are isolated or insulated from the public," Milliken said.

However, the governor said "a combination of circumstances may dictate that" Ford stay in Washington, D.C., more of the time.

"I think he may want to curtail some of his travel and not expose himself" to as much danger, Milliken said.

Michigan law, Milliken noted, would let police hold persons suspected of being threats to the life of a President.

Ford is scheduled to visit Michigan, his home state, Oct. 10-11 for a Republican party fund-raiser in Detroit and for the University of Michigan-Michigan State University football game in East Lansing. The President said after an attempt on his life Monday he will continue his campaign-style travels, despite congressional fears and questions about lax security.

In Monday's incident, the second this month, a woman brandishing a pistol fired at Ford from about 40 feet away as he emerged from a San Francisco hotel. The bullet bounced off the pavement but Ford was shoved unharmed to the floor of his bullet-proof limousine, which sped away.

Seventeen days earlier, 90 miles to the east, Secret Service agents wrestled a handgun from a young woman in Sacramento, Calif.

Michigan law, Milliken noted, would let police hold persons suspected of being threats to the life of a President.

He said the board agreed to the 5 per cent wage and retirement increases and to most of the health insurance fees — $58.44 of a total $68.42 monthly for full-family coverage.

Schroeder said the two sides were similarly close on second-year economic proposals, although the teachers' demands were based on a three-year contract and the board's offer on a two-year contract.

"The big problem," he said, "was that they wouldn't make it retroactive — it wouldn't have started until our next pay period. That would be seven weeks into the contract and we'd be losing close to 15 per cent of the increase."

"Even then, my personal feeling is that the teachers probably would have accepted this if they had been able to get satisfaction on non-economic issues."

Mrs. Hunt said the BHEA renewed its demand for binding arbitration in a meeting with the board's negotiating team Tuesday night, but was offered a counter-proposal of submitting the issues to fact-finding, which we felt was another delay tactic."

Board president E.E. (Bill) Bentley responded in a statement this morning that "we will never consent to binding arbitration — regardless of what it is called."

"This board has been elected to represent the community and to make decisions based on the best possible information available to us."

"It is our responsibility to insure that each student enrolled in the Benton Harbor area schools is given the opportunity to achieve his greatest potential, and we will never give up any rights which might interfere with that goal."

David Brand and William Singer of 114 Oak street, said their apartment was ransacked sometime between 2:50 and 5:50 p.m. Police said entry was made through a back door which was unlocked.

the Benton Harbor district and that the Berrien Intermediate School Board has fostered racial segregation in the district by several actions:

—Approving transfer of predominantly white Sodas students from Benton Harbor to Eau Claire.

—Rejecting an earlier Sodas transfer request that included a larger number of black students.

—Approving formation of three career education "consortia" that included every school district within Berrien county except Benton Harbor, reducing the opportunities of Benton Harbor students to break out of the "white nose" of segregated suburban communities.

The Michigan Municipal Boundary Commission was cited for failing to disapprove the petition by Fairplain residents for establishment of a "separate, virtually all-white, municipality" which would "further intensify the problems of racial discrimination and segregation" in the school district and city of Benton Harbor.

The complaint also alleges that between 1966 and 1974 the racial percentage of Benton Harbor's school population "exactly reversed" from 62.37 white to 62.37 black and as of one year ago stood at 68.5 per cent black.

Other percentages of black students listed in the NAACP complaint include St. Joseph 11 per cent, Eau Claire 18 per cent, Coloma 2 per cent and Watervliet 3 per cent (A report from the State Department of Education for the 1973-74 school year shows the following percentages of black students: Benton Harbor 54.4; St. Joseph 1.3; Eau Claire 11 plus 9.2 Latino; Coloma two-tenths; Watervliet none.)

Cited as contributing factors to this pattern were:

—The availability of low-rent public housing in Benton Harbor and general exclusion of such housing in surrounding communities.

—Action by surrounding communities restricting private housing at low rent, specifically action by the St. Joseph city commission rejecting rezoning for new apartments and placing a moratorium on conversion of single family housing into multiple family dwellings.

—Alleged "redlining" by realtors and financial institutions funneling black home buyers into pre-selected areas.

—A disparity in the treatment of tuition transfer requests by black and white students.

In giving permission to rehear the Sodas transfer, Judge Fox noted that "in view of further developments in this case, it is preferable to allow the State Board of Education to reconsider its approval of the transfer."

No date for the rehearing has been set and a state department of education spokesman Tuesday said "as a guess" that it would be at least two months before it would be held.

Approval of the rehearing brought an immediate reaction from Mrs. Victor Felner, chairman of the Concerned Parents and Taxpayers of Sodas, who declared: "We are prepared to fight this transfer matter to a final and just conclusion."

Two Request Permits For Lake Groins

COVERT — Two Covert township property owners have asked the corps of engineers for permission to build anti-erosion groins into Lake Michigan.

The requests are from Harry Sarno and Terry Molter, according to the U.S. Army corps of engineers' office in Detroit.

The proposed groins, about 40 feet long overall, would extend 20 feet into Lake Michigan waters from present bulkheads, according to plans submitted to the engineers. Construction would be just off 32nd avenue.

Objections to the proposed construction must be made in writing to the engineers prior to 4:30 p.m. Oct. 22, a spokesman said.

BH Teachers Plan One-Day Walkout

salary demands were for an immediate 5 per cent increase in base pay (from $8,875 to $9,300) for teachers holding a bachelor's degree and for the board to pay the 5 per cent teacher retirement and Super-Med II health insurance.

He said the board agreed to the 5 per cent wage and retirement increases and to most of the health insurance fees — $58.44 of a total $68.42 monthly for full-family coverage.

Schroeder said the two sides were similarly close on second-year economic proposals, although the teachers' demands were based on a three-year contract and the board's offer on a two-year contract.

"The big problem," he said, "was that they wouldn't make it retroactive — it wouldn't have started until our next pay period. That would be seven weeks into the contract and we'd be losing close to 15 per cent of the increase."

"Even then, my personal feeling is that the teachers probably would have accepted this if they had been able to get satisfaction on non-economic issues."

Mrs. Hunt said the BHEA renewed its demand for binding arbitration in a meeting with the board's negotiating team Tuesday night, but was offered a counter-proposal of submitting the issues to fact-finding, which we felt was another delay tactic."

Board president E.E. (Bill) Bentley responded in a statement this morning that "we will never consent to binding arbitration — regardless of what it is called."

"This board has been elected to represent the community and to make decisions based on the best possible information available to us."

"It is our responsibility to insure that each student enrolled in the Benton Harbor area schools is given the opportunity to achieve his greatest potential, and we will never give up any rights which might interfere with that goal."

David Brand and William Singer of 114 Oak street, said their apartment was ransacked sometime between 2:50 and 5:50 p.m. Police said entry was made through a back door which was unlocked.

Patty Swears She Lied About 'Tania'

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst, who once derided speculation she was brainwashed, now swears that she lied under duress when she told of her rebirth as the revolutionary "Tania."

Miss Hearst's written testimony, which contradicts many of her tape-recorded pronouncements from the underground, is likely to be hotly disputed in court.

The 21-year-old heiress declares in an affidavit that she was driven to insanity by her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers. She says they tortured her physically and mentally. She says she was blindfolded, bound and locked in a closet for weeks while constantly threatened with death.

"Finally, under the pressure of these threats, deprivation of liberty, isolation, and terror, she felt her mind clouding, and everything appeared so distorted and terrible that she believed and feared that she was losing her sanity," says the affidavit, filed in support of a motion that she be released on bond.

The document suggests that Miss Hearst, who declared that she had joined the terrorist band that kidnaped her, might still be insane.

Even now, captured and jailed, Miss Hearst says she remembers little of what happened to her after April, 1974 — two months after her abduction — and feels "as though she lived in a fog."

Her mother has compared Miss Hearst to a brainwashed prisoner of war. And a federal judge ordered on Tuesday that Miss Hearst undergo psychiatric examination.

The process of selecting a psychiatric panel was expected to be completed by next Tuesday when Miss Hearst returns to court. U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter said he would not consider setting bail until the psychiatric report is in.

U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr., who seeks to try Miss Hearst on bank robbery and weapons charges, said, "I am looking forward to the opportunity of cross-examining Miss Hearst on the stand, assuming she is competent to stand trial."

He was expected to point out inconsistencies between Miss Hearst's sworn affidavit and her earlier actions and tape-recorded comments.

The affidavit did not explain her apparent signals of continued revolutionary ardor since her arrest — clenched fist salutes, greetings to comrades and self-description on her booking sheet as an "urban guerrilla."

The seven-and-a-half page document, prepared and submitted by a team of defense attorneys, ignored a 17-month period during which Miss Hearst was a fugitive.

During that time she declared in one tape recording that she "died" with six SLA comrades in a May 1974 shootout with Los Angeles police and was reborn to new revolutionary fervor.

"I know what I have to do," she said in that tape of June 7, 1974. "My comrades didn't die in vain. While I have no death wish, I have never been afraid of death. For this reason, the brainwash-duress theory of the pig Hearsts has always amused me."

The affidavit says, "She needs help and counseling to restore herself to complete sanity and to the life she led before the terrible experience which she underwent at the hands of this criminal gang brought her to the condition she is now in."

The affidavit's tale of terror and torment begins with Miss Hearst's abduction at Berkeley, Calif., on Feb. 4, 1974, and ends when she says she was forced to help rob a San Francisco bank on April 15, 1974. For many of these weeks, she recalls being locked in a closet.

"The closet was hot and extremely uncomfortable," the affidavit said. "She was given food but was unable to eat any for a period of about ten days, and for all that period was unable to dispose of her body wastes."

It said that the SLA member "Cinque," escaped convict Donald DeFreeze, brought tape recorders into the closet on which she recorded widely distributed statements.

When her blindfold was removed, "she felt as if she were on some LSD trip; everything was out of proportion, big and distorted."

"She heard constant threats against her life and saw that all of her captors were armed with revolvers, shotguns and other weapons."

The affidavit suggests the kidnapers' most potent weapon in a battle for Miss Hearst's mind were constant reports that her parents had abandoned her and would let her die.

When she returned recently to San Francisco, it was to find out if her parents still loved her, the affidavit says.

The document said the SLA's pressure finally broke her.

"She finally came to the realization that she was becoming insane, and fought to ward off this condition," the affidavit says.

The document does not mention the April 4, 1974, tape in which Miss Hearst announced she had taken the name "Tania" and decided voluntarily to stay with the SLA.

"I have never been forced to say anything on any tape," she declared then. "Nor have I been brainwashed, drugged, tortured, hypnotized or in any way confused. As George Jackson wrote, 'It's me, the way I want it, the way I see it.'"

Eleven days later, she was photographed holding an automatic rifle on customers during a robbery of a branch of the Hibernia Bank. Her affidavit says she was forced to participate under threat of death.

After the robbery, Miss Hearst said in another tape, "As for being brainwashed, the idea is ridiculous to the point of being beyond belief."

The affidavit contends her words were the lies of an insane woman.

But other statements in the tapes could be used in her defense. She refers frequently to abandonment by her parents and a fear that the FBI would kill her — ideas the defense says were part of the brainwashing.

The statements, which may be a preview of Miss Hearst's defense if she is tried, closely parallel public statements by her mother, Catherine Hearst, prior to her daughter's arrest last Thursday.

Mrs. Hearst, whose husband, Randolph A. Hearst, is president of the San Francisco Examiner, has said frequently that she believed her daughter was kept in a closet, tortured and brainwashed.

In statements accompanying Miss Hearst's affidavit, her parents vouch for her renewed love of family, her "disturbed" mental condition and their belief that she would not flee if released.

Hunting Safety Class Scheduled In Sodus

SODUS — Sodus township board last night authorized the use of the township hall for a proposed hunting safety course for youngsters to be sponsored by Ronald Karsten of St. Joseph and Ed Juergenson, township police chief. The course will be open to the public, according to Carrol B. Cox, township clerk. No dates for the course have been set as yet.

Sand Mine Chief Wins Chamber Environment Post

By ALAN AREND
Staff Writer
Russell E. Manley, president of Manley Brothers Sand Mining company, has been appointed to the Michigan Chamber of Commerce's environmental quality committee.

The firm has a sand mining operation north of Bridgman which has been attacked by environmentalists for its treatment of the sand dunes along Lake Michigan. The operation lies in parts of Lake and Lincoln townships.

In 1974, Lake and Lincoln townships filed suit against Manley Brothers in Berrien Circuit court, seeking a halt the company's sand mining operation near Bridgman.

The suit was settled earlier this year and the company will be allowed to proceed with its operation near Bridgman providing it follows to the letter a plan for sand removal approved by the court. The plan was developed to assure the Grand Mere area will be kept in the same basic ecology. As yet, Manley Brothers has not made application to the court to proceed with its sand mining operation in the Grand Mere dunes area, according to Mrs. Bernice Trelhewy, Lincoln township clerk.

Manley, whose firm is headquartered in Chesterton, Ind., was appointed to the committee by Harry R. Hall, state chamber president, for a one-year term.

According to George Graff, of the state chamber's environmental department, committee appointments are made each year from among volunteers. He said the committee has 63 members.

Night Class, GED Signups Being Accepted At BHHS

Benton Harbor Area schools announced that this is the final week for adults to register for night classes in credit courses that lead to a regular high school diploma.

The school also reported that adults who seek the equivalent of a diploma by passing a General Education Development (GED) examination may register anytime during the year. The next GED examination will be given Monday through Thursday, Oct. 13-18. GED classes are free, but a $10 fee is charged to take the examination.

Both GED and credit courses for people 18 and older are operated by the school district's Adult Education Services. Registration or further information in either area may be made by calling the adult education office at senior high school.

Credit courses begin next week, with the following class openings available:

Monday: English 9, English 10, English 11, civics, general mathematics, oil painting and record keeping.

Tuesday: Civics, US history, word study, typing and sewing. Wednesday: Current American problems, general mathematics, English 9 through 11 (second semester), child care, art (jewelry), auto services, auto mechanics, auto body, and shorthand.

Thursday: office procedures, speech, human biology, US history, second semester, men's tailoring, and art (ceramics).

Also to be offered on Monday and Thursday are reading improvement classes.

Law Brand New, But Changes Due

By MALCOLM JOHNSON

Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) —

With the governor's signature barely dry on a new political reform law, a battle is shaping up in the state legislature over proposed changes in the landmark act.

No one disputes the fact that corrections are needed in the law, which was passed in the final days of the session last month. But where Republicans feel corrections are needed, Democrats may think the law is just fine, and vice versa.

The new law regulates and restricts campaign contributions and expenditures; provides for partial public financing of gubernatorial campaigns; requires public officials to file statements of financial interests; forces registration of and disclosure by lobbyists; and sets up a political ethics commission to enforce the law.

The most likely area for a partisan struggle is the campaign financing section of the law, which requires reporting of political donations and expenditures.

The primary issue is the "Cooper amendment," which was added by the Senate late one night and only attracted attention later. The amendment allows the transfer of political funds between organizations and their affiliates or sub-units.

The provision almost torpedoed the bill, as Republicans in the House withdrew their support and blocked immediate effect — meaning the law won't take effect until April, too late to completely cover the 1976 primary election.

The GOP argues that the provision biases a carefully balanced law in favor of the Democrats, saying that labor unions could most easily utilize it to shuffle funds from one union local to another. Gov. William Milliken, in signing the bill, called for repeal of the "law."

Changing the amendment also has the support of Common Cause, which originated the bill. But Democrats profess innocence and say they don't understand what all the fuss is about.

Rick Cole, an aide of Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald of Detroit, called it a "book-keeping amendment to permit organizations which already report contributions and collect dues at a central location to send money back to their local affiliates." And he argued it covered business and professional organizations, not just labor unions, and did not subvert the limits on contributions.

Veteran Educator Takes Hard Line On Discipline

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For 42 years Isabelle Buckley has resisted the tides of progressive education.

A tall, willowy woman of 75, Mrs. Buckley's appearance hardly fits her role as a counter-revolutionary. Yet, she will have no part of academic permissiveness.

She is founder and director of the nationally recognized Buckley School, which has been described as a "no-nonsense approach to education" for children age 2 through high school. The school in suburban Sherman Oaks, is co-educational.

The school's prodding of its 750 students to learn and its insistence on obedience and respect horrified progressive educators beginning in 1953.

ISABELLE BUCKLEY
No-nonsense approach

then won their grudging respect. All of the school's 55 high school graduates in June enrolled in college.

"My philosophy since the beginning has been that it's possible to give children a desire to learn," Mrs. Buckley said. She believes ideally that process should start at 2.

"We believe in the progressive philosophy of self-expression. But to that we add self-discipline. We are able to have discipline in our school. Our philosophy is not theory; we have seen the results."

Mrs. Buckley enforces discipline at her school with a firm and gentle hand, and insists that it be practiced at home as well. Parents are encouraged to supervise the mandatory homework, assign household chores and limit TV viewing to weekends.

A child whose parents are unwilling to cooperate isn't accepted for enrollment.

Mrs. Buckley said she believes in rules, but not rigidity. Most of all, she believes in children.

"We have always believed in the potential of each child who comes to our school," said Mrs. Buckley, who says her own education in Detroit was too regimented.

"I think so many of the independent schools insist that the students they take have a past record of good tests. We're not that insistent. If the parents cooperate and the child shows some desire to learn, we accept the child."

The small classes (less than 20 per teacher) — permit individual attention from the teachers. Problem areas in learning are quickly pinpointed and special programs are set up to overcome them.

Although the school is expensive — high school tuition is $2,050 a year — Mrs. Buckley maintains the school is not snobbish and has a liberal scholarship policy.

In her book "College Begins at Two," (1965) she writes: "It has been my experience that, although children have a natural curiosity, they do not necessarily have a natural desire to learn.

"Desire generally has to be implanted, and to gain knowledge requires struggle. The earlier the struggle in the formative years, the easier will be the acquisition of skills in the later years."

The structure of Buckley School does not mean play and laughter are excluded.

"A child who never knows a child's world or the fantasy of play and the joy of games rarely matures," she says.

Preschoolers at Buckley are not given the customary finger paints or crayons and left to do as they please. Instead they get lessons in rhythmic dancing, handicraft, art and music. And the 2-year-olds begin a course in French that continues through high school.

They can read a newspaper and write by the time they complete the first grade. There is strong emphasis in following grades on physics, chemistry, biology, mathematics and foreign languages.

Mrs. Buckley says that when children come to her school from elsewhere, they usually are behind their Buckley counterparts, especially in English and math. Buckley students are sometimes a grade and more ahead of their public school counterparts when they transfer.

Mrs. Buckley began with nine preschool children in a bungalow in Beverly Hills in 1933. She had just returned to the United States with her four children (her husband had been in the diplomatic service) and was disappointed with the schools she found here.

"I realized my children were not getting a good education," she said. "In France they went to a country school, and I saw the value of a teacher in that school. There was only one teacher, but she taught those — uncouth children — good manners."

"I could see what one teacher could do."

She also drew on the academic training of English schools and the emphasis on sports in Australian schools.

She thought her preschool would last only a few years. But parents, seeing the results, soon demanded an elementary school, then a junior high and finally a high school. Her four children, now grown, are notably successful: a naval architect, a teacher, a researcher and a Dominican nun.

At one point she had four schools, but has now consolidated them all into a 28-acre campus of Mediterranean styled buildings.

Mrs. Buckley sees the purpose of her school as developing the children in four areas: spiritually, emotionally, academically and physically. Unlike the public schools, children at Buckley say a prayer every morning. They are also required to wear uniforms and keep their hair short.

"You might not like the uniforms and having to have haircuts, but you get the feeling that the world has to have discipline and that you have to have it in your own life," said one Buckley student.

Says Mrs. Buckley: "We want the children to become competitive and learn fair play," she said. "It took me a long time to learn that children aren't naturally good sports."

At Leath's Great Sale of SOFAS and SLEEPERS!!!

...A SPECTACULAR PURCHASE of SOFAS, SOFA-SLEEPERS from Kroehler, Flexsteel, Schweiger and many others...

CQ Congress Votes

BY CONGRESSIONAL QUARTERLY

HOUSE

Oil Price Controls. By a 151-242 vote, the House halted an effort to delete oil pricing language from an energy policy bill, thereby agreeing to retain and extend federal oil price controls. The language affirmed by the vote provided a three-tier pricing system for oil produced in the United States, with price ceilings ranging from $5.25 per barrel for such oil to $19.00 per barrel for oil difficult to locate or produce.

Advocates of retaining the oil price control language, who favored the three-tier pricing control system, said that it was necessary to protect the consumer from unnecessarily high prices and to protect the American economy from price increases dictated by foreign oil producers. They said that the prices allowed under the three-tier system were sufficiently high to stimulate oil exploration and production.

Members who tried to eliminate the oil pricing language from the bill had argued that by doing so, the House might clear the way for a compromise between Congress and the President on the issue of federal oil price controls. They also argued that the pricing system would encourage domestic consumption of oil by keeping prices artificially low and would discourage increased domestic exploration and development of oil resources.

Voting for oil price controls: Blanchard (D), Conyers (D), O'Neill (Majority Leader).

SENATE

School Busing. The Senate voted 90-48 to adopt an amendment that would forbid the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from withholding federal funds in order to force any school district to bus pupils or assign pupils or teachers on the basis of race. The amendment was part of a HEW appropriations bill being debated by the Senate and would not effect court-ordered busing plans.

Proponents of the anti-busing amendment — led by Delaware Democrat Joe Biden — maintained that busing had not worked and was counter-productive to efforts to achieve equal education. They also said busing orders should be left to the courts and not to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Opponents of the anti-busing amendment said the action would nullify programs needed to ensure compliance with Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which prohibits discrimination under any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance and authorizes federal agencies to enforce anti-discrimination rules and regulations.

Voting in favor of anti-busing amendment: Griffin (R).

Not voting: Hart (D).

Pay Raise. By a 39-53 vote, the Senate refused to reject President Ford's recommendation to hold pay increases to five per cent for members of Congress, military personnel, and federal government top officials and white collar employees. Had the move to reject Ford's five per cent pay increase recommendation been successful, then pay raises of 8.6 per cent would automatically have been scheduled, as proposed in early August by the Advisory Committee on Federal Pay. The five per cent pay boost will take effect Oct. 1 if it is not rejected by the House.

Supporters of the President's plan to limit federal pay increases to five per cent argued that it was needed to curb federal spending and that it was a conflict-of-interest for senators to vote themselves a salary increase.

Opponents said that federal white collar employees and military personnel should not be singled out to fight inflation and budget deficits. Some members added that the 999,000 black lung victims and dependents whose benefits were tied to the federal pay schedule would be denied needed benefit increases if the President's plan was approved.

Voting for five per cent pay raise: Griffin (R). Not voting: Hart (D).

Won't Give Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Elton Helander do not intend to give up their fight to win their daughter Wendy back from the Unification Church.

The Helanders' lawyer, Ronald Goldfarb, said the couple will decide soon whether to appeal a court ruling that they could not interfere with the girl's religious beliefs or to attempt some other legal means to challenge the 18-year-old girl's membership in Rev. Sun Myung Moon's controversial cult.

Relief Workers Tally Wreckage From Hurricane

By JOHN VAN GIESON
Associated Press Writer

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Disaster relief workers are assessing the havoc wreaked by the first major hurricane to strike directly at the Florida panhandle coast in almost four decades.

Hurricane Eloise, now only a heavy thundershower over Tennessee, slammed into a 40-mile stretch of coast between Fort Walton Beach and Panama City before dawn Tuesday with drenching rains, howling winds and spin-off tornadoes.

One person was reported dead, damage estimates ran as high as $100 million, hundreds were left homeless and power and water supplies were still unreliable today for many residents.

Robert Smith of Florida's Division of Emergency Preparedness said the situation was "bad in five counties: Okaloosa, Walton, Bay, Holmes and Washington. It's the worst one I've had."

Officials in the Panama City area estimated damages there at $50 million, while Mayor H. Gene Smith of Fort Walton Beach estimated damages at $20 million. Other estimates trickled in as tens of thousands of residents returned to their homes.

"You go down every street and you see buildings without roofs, signs down, trees down," said Smith. "It's so widespread."

Gov. Reubin Askew, who called out 400 National Guardsmen to protect against looters, was expected to visit the area today. Florida Republican leaders asked President Ford to inspect the five-county region to see if it qualifies for disaster assistance.

Officials at the National Hurricane Center in Miami said the populations of the three most severely affected counties — Okaloosa, Walton and Bay — had increased almost five-fold since each had suffered a direct hit by a powerful hurricane.

While Walton County's population has remained at about 16,000 since it was hit by a hurricane in 1936, Okaloosa's population increased from 16,000 in 1936 to 65,000 in 1970, the last figure available.

WILLIAMSBURG GAS WELL

DNR Impact Report Nixed

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The state Environmental Review board has rejected an environmental impact statement from the Department of Natural Resources in connection with the proposed reopening of a gas well in Williamsburg.

The rejection came after an adverse report was made by a board subcommittee which attended a hearing in Williamsburg on Sept. 9.

The rejection of the environmental impact statement delays reopening of the well for at least a month and possibly longer. The statement was returned to the DNR for more work.

If the DNR redrafts the statement quickly, board chairman Dr. William Cooper said he would call a special board meeting.

Otherwise, the redrafted statement will not be considered until the board's next regular monthly meeting Oct. 27.

The DNR and Amoco Production Co., which owns the well, would like to reopen the well, known as Whitewater E1-22, before winter, said Terry Yunker, board executive secretary.

The board advises the governor and state agencies: Its recommendations can be ignored but that has never happened.

The board subcommittee said the environmental impact statement did not contain enough details about contingency plans in the event gas leaks such as those which forced 80 families from their homes in 1973.

The families had to flee their homes after gas began bubbling from the well, seeping into porous rock. State officials said the gas escaped because the well did not have protective casing. Casing was later installed prior to the well being plugged.

The DNR report did not adequately outline the ways law enforcement agencies and state departments would be immediately notified in case of another mishap, the subcommittee said. A major criticism surrounding the 1973 incident was that the state was not informed anything was wrong for four days.

The subcommittee also wanted more consideration given to alternatives to reopening the well, such as leaving it closed, Yunker said.

More thought should be given to preventing such an incident from occurring again, such as having someone other than Amoco work the well, the subcommittee said.

NBC Daytime Fare Changes Pace

By JAY SHARBUIT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Daytime TV is no longer just a place for game shows and plodding soap operas, right? Well, on Thursday, NBC is trying what Monty Python might call something completely different.
It is pre-empting two soap operas for a costly, 90-minute exercise ambiguously entitled, "Barbara Walters Visits the Royal Lovers." The lovers turn out to be married, with no hint of scandal about them.
Only two royal couples are dealt with: one in France, the other in Denmark, although lesser aristocrats appear as supporting players.
The show, described as an experiment in daytime TV by producer Lucy Jarvis, is a well-photographed combination of the this-is-me-at-the-palace and the it's simply divine schools of journalism.
It isn't meant to be weighty, as one might suspect from Miss Walters' inquiries. They range from asking the pretender to the throne of France if married Frenchmen keep mistresses to this corker to the Queen of Denmark: "Is it hard to be a queen?"
Billed as a look at "the glamorous world of European royalty," it's also a look at how Miss Walters hunkers in that world, apparently to inspire vicarious thrills for the housewife in Peoria.
In the first segment, on French would-be royalty and all that, Miss Walters takes us to a joint called Maxm's in Paris to watch her rub elbows with her aristocratic hosts and bump in to Pierre Salinger, former press secretary to the late President Kennedy.

After she notes that he has strong opinions about modern royalty, she is seen traveling with Salinger in a car the next day.
She explains in narration that "the next morning I had an appointment at Versailles and Pierre gave me a lift." En route, he reveals that while aristocrats regard themselves as important, the average Frenchman gives not hoot one about their lives.

That should have been ample warning. But she presses on to Versailles, gapes a bit, chats a bit, then goes to a horse race and is told by a giggling Indian prince he needs a rich wife.
Then comes an aristocratic dinner, followed by a quick trip to fashion designer Yves St. Laurent, who says he is designing below the knee this year, and whips up a quick evening dress for her.

And on it goes, with Miss Walters mightily impressed at times, pretentious at other moments and occasionally attempting to inject a little humor to show that she's just plain folks.
The only segment that really is interesting is her visit with the young Queen of Denmark, a very warm, natural and unassuming lady.
Producer Jarvis says this show came about because she,

Miss Walters, and Lin Bolen, NBC's daytime programs chief, felt viewers might like a daytime experiment of this sort. If it's successful, she adds, there may be more.
Cheers to all experiments. But considering that about $200,000 was spent on "Visits" — thankfully, not from the NBC News budget — one wonders if the money wouldn't be better spent on more substantial matters.

Ask Your DentistALFRED E. SEYLER,
D.D.S.

Q: I have a lady friend who tells me she has two of her daughter's teeth in her own mouth. She claims that when her daughter was told to have four of her bicuspid teeth removed for orthodontic reasons, the oral surgeon jokingly said he could transplant them to the mother's jaw, where she had a molar tooth missing for a few months. The mother agreed to try — rather than to have a bridge made for the missing tooth.

The oral surgeon extracted the teeth from the child, filled the root canals of each tooth, made holes of proper size in the mother's jaw, set the extracted teeth in position, wired them in place and that was all there was to it.

After a few weeks, the mother's dentist reshaped the points of the new teeth to fit the lower teeth, and took off the wire again.

The teeth are still solid, after three years, the mother says — and x-rays show they are not abscessed and have good bone around them.

Can I believe this story since I have looked at the two transplanted teeth?

A: Yes, I think the story COULD be true, and as I read your letter, I began to think of situations of a similar nature in my own practice, where the same thing could be done.

Transplantation and replantation of teeth have been done by some dentists for quite a few years, with varying degrees of success. At some dental schools (I believe the University of Michigan is one), I understand a "tooth bank" has been established, and investigation into the feasibility of routine tooth transplanting is under way.

No so long ago I read in a German dental journal "Quintessenz International" — a report of a case similar to the one you mention, with a successful result after 2½ years, so I am inclined to believe your friend's experience!

Q: A few days ago I had a tooth extracted. My dentist gave me a sheet of instructions and a couple of tablets called tylenol to take if I had any pain, headache and so on. He told me many people shouldn't take aspirin — especially older people. Was he just trying to impress me — or are there really people who should not take aspirin?

A: The trouble with aspirin is that we don't always know who can tolerate it and who cannot. The drug your dentist gave you is acetaminophen, which is much safer than aspirin and just as effective. It is usually well tolerated — even by patients who should not take aspirin — for some reason or another.

For many years aspirin has been considered to be a safe, useful and inexpensive drug. But for some people it can be "bad medicine". Medical literature tells us that in the following situations, people should be cautious and unwilling to take aspirin: gastric ulcer, anemia, gout and allergies of several types. Patients who are on anticoagulant medicine should avoid aspirin.

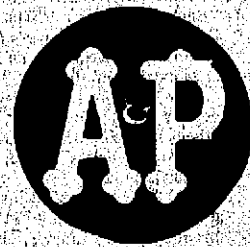

Q: My father has a white scaly-looking sore on his lip and inside his cheek. It doesn't bother him and he keeps telling me it will go away in time. Could this be dangerous?

A: I think your Dad should see an oral surgeon at once. A white sore on his lips or inside on the cheeks could be a sign of trouble to come. I suspect the sore is leukoplakia, which means a white plaque.

Leukoplakia could be caused by chronic irritation, such as cheek or lip biting, pipe or cigarette smoking or even by a fungus. It could be related to cancer.

A proper diagnosis of your Dad's problem would probably require that a small piece of the skin which is sore, be examined by a pathologist, under a microscope.

John Durkin

The special Senate election in New Hampshire last week was extremely suggestive of things to come between now and the Presidential sweepstakes in Nov. 1976. Louis Wyman, the Republican defeated by 30,000 votes by liberal Democrat John Durkin, is one of the sole surviving dinosaurs. In the 1950s, as state Attorney General, he developed into a two-bit Joe McCarthy, harassing "subversive" lecturers and generally protecting the innocent people of the Granite State from sinister forces. Indeed, there was a time when the combination of Senator Styles Bridges (A prince of yahoos), Wyman and the Manchester "Union Leader" (a paper that rivals "Pravda" for objectivity) could ignite quite a firestorm.

Wyman gave up his seat in the House of Representatives to run for the Senate and, after his defeat in the rerun announced that he was "politically" dead. New Hampshire has seen the last of Louis Wyman.

What did the election demonstrate? Well, if you believed Wyman's rhetoric, a vote for Durkin was a blow for the tyranny of trade unions, for pampering welfare leeches, for inflation, and for janitors. (Wyman kindly observed that Durkin was not fit to be a janitor. — John took this a bit personally as his father had been a janitor.) Governor Thomson has not surfaced yet with his interpretation, but maybe he will give us another laugh by noting that Wyman lost because that liberal Ford supported him, driving masses of true rightwingers into the Durkin camp.

Well, enough fun — as you know, I am a good winner, but it shouldn't be overdone. The Senate election in my judgment indicated that, although Watergate is a dead issue, the Ford Administration has provided the Democrats with an even more powerful appeal: the economy and the lack of leadership. Durkin's practical triumph (however you counted the votes) over Wyman in 1974 was a Watergate freak — the odds were he wouldn't come close. This time he simply walked away; Wyman conceded at 9:30 p.m. With all respect to Governor Thomson and his rain dancers, the American people are not cheerfully waiting around for unemployment because they know it will raise the Dow-Jones.

Back in 1968 I suggested here that the odds favored Richard Nixon because there was a war on, and Republicans end wars. I also remarked that the other side of this proposition was that the populace associates the Republicans with depressions. In 1968 it seemed worth risking: a depression to end a war, but in 1974 what will be the trade-off? New Hampshire gives us a hint.

Take another issue: the Republican yowl about cutting back welfare and other public services. During prosperity this picks up some transitory charm, but there are 21 million Americans over age 65 and, far from being worshippers at the shrine of Arthur Burns and the incredible Alan Greenspan, they properly feel they have earned the right to medical and other public assistance programs. When told about the wonders of the free market, they may not say much — but do they vote? Memory serves, their level of participation is roughly twice that of the 18-30 group.

Increasingly over the past months I have sensed the growth of a new public attitude towards President Ford, and the New Hampshire results seem to verify it. Everyone likes Good Old Gerry, Mrs. Ford is sweet and everything around the White House is hunky-dory — except that President Ford is vanishing like the Cheshire Cat. The American people don't want Good Old Gerry in the Oval Office; they want President Gerald Ford.

Youth Charged With Murder

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A first-degree murder charge has been filed in juvenile court against a 15-year-old youth in the shooting death of a fellow pupil during a racial disturbance at Grant High School last week.

James Briggs was ordered held without bond in a juvenile detention facility pending arraignment on Oct. 7. Briggs, charged Tuesday, has been in custody since the disturbance last Thursday.

World's longest reign

EMPERESS NAGAKO
She's coming, too

JAPAN'S EMPEROR HIROHITO U.S. Visit To Fulfill A Wish

By KAY TATESHII
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito of Japan, the world's longest reigning sovereign, will make his first tour of the United States starting next week. It will be the fulfillment of a wish made 50 years ago.

The trip with Empress Nagako starting next Wednesday and running to Oct. 13 will afford Americans in Washington, New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Honolulu a first hand look at the little, mild-mannered man that many of them remember from pictures during World War II.

Those were the days that Hirohito was pictured in full military uniform and plumed hat as he sat astride a white charger reviewing Japan's military forces.

Hirohito, now 74, was considered by his subjects then as the divine son of the sun goddess.

But time has untangled a knotty problem involving the Japanese imperial system and today he is regarded as an ordinary human being, friend and a symbol of the West's hope for peace in Asia.

Hirohito's U.S. visit is to return a visit last fall by President Ford, the first American President in office ever to travel to Japan.

It was during a courtesy call on the commander of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet aboard the flagship Pittsburgh in Gibraltar in 1921 that Hirohito, then crown prince, remarked that he regretted he couldn't accept a presidential invitation to go to the United States from his tour of Europe. He told the admiral he would plan an American visit upon his return from Europe, but subsequent turns in Japanese-American relations robbed him of his wish.

Although World War II was declared in his name, following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, Hirohito 44 months later personally announced Japan's surrender. The aggressive Japanese adventure had reduced his island empire to a shambles, including atom-bombed Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

For a long time, Hirohito, the 124th emperor of Japan, had been a prisoner of protocol and tradition. Not until 1971 was he able to make his first trip outside of Japan as emperor under special legislation enacted by the Diet, Japan's parliament. The trip turned out to be a sentimental journey as he had visited Europe in 1921 as crown prince and heir apparent to the

2,800-year-old gold chrysanthemum throne. Commenting on that 1921 trip, he once said: "I felt like a little bird in a little cage until I visited Europe. The experience gained enriched my life."

Upon his return he had hoped to introduce modern ways to the centuries-old imperial court. But that was denied him as he

He also preters Western-style clothing, dislikes brown and wears suspenders, but is seldom seen in imperial court robes and hardly ever in a kimono. The empress whose wardrobe includes both Western and Japanese clothing, selects his neckties.

At 10 a.m. Hirohito doffs his hat to the empress, who gives spends half the day in his research laboratory pursuing his favorite subject: biology. He is an internationally recognized biologist and has written books on hydrozoa, deep-sea coelenterate animals, such as jellyfish.

Following dinner, he and the empress watch television or listen to recorded music. His favorite sport is sumo, Japanese wrestling, which he watches on television and once a year joins the spectators at the sumo arena.

They retire at 10 p.m. Unlike most Japanese, the emperor is not fond of the long hot bath.

The emperor and empress have two sons and two daughters-in-law. Crown Prince Akihito and Princess Michiko, and Prince Hitachi and Princess Hanako, and three daughters. They have nine grandchildren.

Hirohito's U.S. visit will be long on formality, with no activities which would run counter to Japanese customs and tradition. It is expected to be all smiles, bows and exchanging of formal greetings.

Hirohito's regular days begin at 7 a.m., after he scans the newspapers, which are disinfected before they are brought to him. He and the empress then have breakfast, which usually consists of oatmeal, bacon and eggs, toast and coffee, a taste for which he acquired during his 1921 tour of Europe.

him a bow at the doorway. He then leaves for the office a short distance away. At the palace he reads documents sent by the Cabinet for his signature, receives visitors, sends messages, attends official functions and performs a variety of duties prescribed in the new constitution.

His work day ends at 5 p.m. but he usually stays on to clear up paper work. On Saturday he

Oldsmobile 1976.

An Olds for everybody. And good mileage in every size.

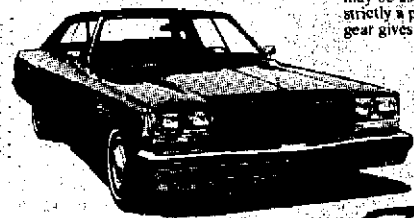

Take a look at the beautiful new 1976 Oldsmobiles in your dealer showroom. They're impressive. Then take a look at the 1976 EPA Mileage Guide test figures for Oldsmobile. They're impressive, too. They show that good gas mileage runs in our family. Remember these mileage figures are estimates. Naturally the actual mileage you get will vary depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and available equipment.

From sporty Starfire supercoupes to full-size, front-wheel drive Toronado, there's good gas mileage in every size Oldsmobile. That's quite a feat considering the array of sizes and models that Olds is offering this year. With this kind of selection, there's bound to be an Olds to fit your lifestyle and pocketbook. And every Olds, whether small, mid-size or full-size is built to be right for the times. This year Oldsmobile is offering an available five-speed overdrive transmission on Starfire, Omega and Cutlass models. (You may be used to thinking of five-speed as strictly a performance feature, but the fifth gear gives you overdrive efficiency.)

We invite you to make a total comparison. Good gas mileage, traditional Oldsmobile engineering, construction, dependability and solid comfort. You'll find each Olds packed with value because it's built with the care and attention to detail that's a tradition at Oldsmobile. Can we build one for you?

THE 98 REGENCY. Proof that the world of luxury doesn't have to ignore a concern for gas economy.

DELTA 88 ROYALE. All the solid dependability of a family-sized Olds. Yet the 88 gets good gas mileage for a car of its size.

STARFIRE. Who says you can't get good gas mileage in a sporty car? Check out Starfire. Starfire SX and the available Starfire GT option—Oldsmobile's supercoupes.

CUTLASS S. Refined from end and sides. The new look is bolder, sportier. All this... and surprising gas economy, too.

CUTLASS SUPREME BROOKHAM. The first mid-sized car to have an interior inspired by the famous '68 Regency. The gas mileage is pretty inspiring, too.

OMEGA BRILLIANT. One probably the most luxurious compact ever built. But its impressive gas mileage reminds you it's an economy car, too.

NFL Settlement Seems Doubtful

Same Issues Clouding Future

CHICAGO (AP) — After 20 months of management-union negotiations, the same contract issues, highlighted by the controversial Rozelle Rule, continue to cloud the future of the National Football League.

Two days of collective bargaining discussions ended in a stalemate Tuesday with both sides agreeing that the same basic non-economic issues still plague a possible labor settlement.

With the breakdown in negotiations, the rank-and-file membership of some 550 players will vote beginning Thursday on management's latest contract offer, which representatives of the 26 NFL owners say will cost them about $30 million in new money over a five-year period.

Sentiment among the NFL union leaders, who met here in face-to-face confrontations with owners and into the wee hours among themselves, was that the contract proposal indicated no significant improvement on economic benefits nor a major change in the Rozelle compensation rule.

The union leaders, including the various team player representatives, also indicated that the proposal would be rejected in the vote by the membership.

After that, it's anybody's guess.

There was speculation that the New England Patriots, who triggered the meetings of Monday and Tuesday with their strike last week, would reject the contract proposal unanimously. But no one would venture a prediction if they would again walk out and refuse to play Sunday against the Miami Dolphins at Foxboro, Mass.

Under the memorandum of agreement last Thursday, which brought about management's proposal Monday, there would be three days of negotiations after the offer was made and then five days for the players to vote, the results to be made public by Oct. 2.

At the time, however, the Patriots said they would decide if management had made a meaningful offer. It was understood that the New England team, which had a contingent of some 15 here at their own expense, was frustrated to the point of exasperation by what they believed to be management's unbending stance in the negotiations.

Other union leaders, among them Dick Anderson, the Miami Dolphins' player representative and a member of the executive board, didn't think there would be a strike because "the players can't afford to lose a season's salary."

If the contract is rejected, some union leaders believe the strike is not a necessary alternative. They believe that satisfaction can be gained eventually in the courts or through Congress.

After negotiations broke off, union president Kermit Alexander was asked if there would be a strike if the proposal was rejected. "It is up to the individual members to communicate to us what their desires are on that," he said.

The union officials said the owners' offer would be presented to the players for a vote without an official recommendation — although Alexander said the association leaders had taken a position on the proposal but would not make it public until the players cast their ballots.

Haslett Paces Lakeshore Win

Dave Haslett carded a 39 Monday as Lakeshore defeated Bridgman and Edwardsburg in a double dual golf match at Wyndwicks Golf Course.

The Lakers finished with a 177 total, four strokes better than the Bees. Edwardsburg posted a 200 score.

Mike Fisher wound up with a 43 for Lakeshore, while Don Richards came in at 46 and Chris Horton at a 49.

Ed Schroeder's 40 topped Bridgman. Neal Smith was next at 42, followed by Mark Krieger with a 48 and Roth Mayo with a 51.

Dave Kaufman and Tom Phoenix each carded 48 for the Eddie. Doug Hume had a 51 and Bill Mattox 53.

Genuine Hatred Developing In Ali And Frazier Camps

MANILA (AP) — Genuine, jagged-edged animosity is beginning to seep through the pores of the ballyhoo, promising that emotion will be a key factor in next week's heavyweight title fight between Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier.

All's taunts and pranks have generated a scathing hate in the Frazier camp. Ali, declaring this a "holy war," has whipped his followers into religious zeal.

Promoters don't have to fabricate this rivalry. It already runs deep.

"I think the man may be losing his mind," Frazier said of the ranting, name-calling champion as training entered the tapering-off phase for the multi-million-dollar rubber match here Oct. 1 (Sept. 30 in the United States).

All, his voice booming, continued to degrade the one-time butcher from Philadelphia.

"I did some special training for Frazier today," he said. "I went to the zoo."

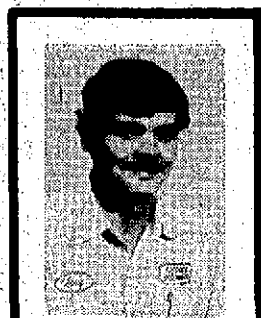

Then he added: "I will destroy him: I will destroy everybody in his camp. He shall bow. He shall crawl. I have an astonishing shock for him. I am going to frighten him to death."

The training period has magnified the contrast in the two black men, both former Olympic champions who followed diverse roads to the heavyweight championship.

All's workout takes the form of a vaudeville show and a camp revival with Ali always the center of the stage — a pockmarked, wide-eyed boy one moment, a sinister, artful tactician the next.

Already he has captivated another country — as he has others before him — with his sharp wit and obvious boxing skills.

Every time he opens his mouth to fire another insult at his challenger — "The Ugly Gorilla," "The Awkward Clod," "The Man Who Can't Talk" — the crowd laughs heartily and gives him a resounding ovation.

A's On Ice Three Days

Henderson Beats Angels With Solo Home Run

From Associated Press

The champagne in Oakland's dressing room has been on ice for three days — and so have the A's.

Oakland's magic number has been at one and holding since Saturday night when they stretched their American League West Division lead to eight games. Since then the Kansas City Royals have won three, the A's have lost three and the lead is down to five.

All of which leaves Oakland Manager Alvin Dark unmoved.

"It would be silly to be concerned when you're five ahead with five to go," said Dark after the A's dropped a 4-3 decision to Minnesota Tuesday night. "To tell you the truth I'm really not concerned about anything."

"But," Dark added, "We'd like to win it soon and get it over with."

Kansas City kept its hopes alive with a 4-0 triumph over Texas but Royals' Manager Whitey Herzog smiled when asked about overtaking the A's.

"They'll never lose that many games in a row," Herzog said. "We've won 89 games and I thought in the winter that 89 would win it."

Minnesota right-hander Bert Blyleven, 15-9, checked the A's on nine hits and struck out seven. Rod Carew doubled home a run for the Twins off Stan Bahnsen, 10-13, in the first. Steve Braun hit a sacrifice fly in the fifth and Dan Ford doubled home two runs in the eighth.

Bert Campaneris had a run-scoring single in the eighth for Oakland and Joe Rudi made it close with a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth.

A's ace Vida Blue goes for the clincher tonight against Chicago's Jesse Jefferson, 5-10.

Kansas City used four pitchers to two-hit the Rangers. Doug Bird started but left in the second inning after injuring his arm. Rookie Bob McClure came in and continued the no-hitter until Roy Smalley singled with one out in the seventh. Steve Mingori and Marty Pattin finished up.

McClure, a 22-year-old left-hander called up from Jacksonville of the Southern League last month, got his first major league victory with a six-inning, eight-strikeout stint.

Frank White hit a home run for the Royals and Amos Otis knocked in two runs with a double and sacrifice fly.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland edged Milwaukee 4-3, Chicago shaded California 5-4 and the Boston-New York and Detroit-Baltimore games were rained out. The Red Sox remain four games ahead of the Orioles in the AL East.

George Hendrick hit his 24th home run of the season on Bill Travers' first pitch in the ninth inning to give Cleveland its victory. Boog Powell knocked in the other three Indian runs with his 24th homer.

The victory lifted the Tribe within two games of New York in the battle for third place in the AL East.

Ken Henderson's solo home run in the seventh inning won it for Chicago.

Lancers, Bucks Trying To Climb Out Of Bud Hole

Can Lakeshore and Buchanan dig themselves out of their Blossomland hole? That question will be answered Friday night when the Lancers and Bucks, both 0-1 in league action, take on a strong pair of front-runners in Dowagiac and Coloma, respectively, both 1-0.

Another loss this early in the season for either Lakeshore or Buchanan would bury their title hopes six feet under.

In other conference games Friday night, Edwardsburg (0-1) takes to Cassopolis (1-0) and River Valley (1-0) travels to Brandywine (1-0).

Both Lakeshore and Buchanan have had similar early season problems with sputtering offenses. The Lancers have only scored one touchdown with 239 yards net offense and 12 first downs in two games while Buchanan has only come up with two six-pointers.

"We're just not getting the blocking up front," explained Lakeshore coach Dave Topping. "We have only two seniors there...we're just young and inexperienced. I'm not going to do anything drastic...just hope for improvement. We just have to be patient."

While the Lancer offense has lacked go-power, the defense has turned in two solid games, giving up only two touchdowns and 20 points overall.

"We have mostly experienced seniors on defense...they've done a fine job for us and I hope it continues as it has," commented Topping, who praised linebacker Craig Shafer and monster man Jim Porter for their outstanding play.

"For the Lancers to remain in the title chase they'll have to beat one of the Blossomland favorites in the Chiefs.

"We feel Dowagiac is one of the better teams in the conference although no one particular outstanding team has emerged so far," offered Topping. "We feel we can play with anyone in the Blossomland."

"We look for it to be an outstanding defensive game. We have to stop their good running tailback Mitchell (Doug). It'll be a rough one."

Friday's game at the Dowagiac field will be the first meeting ever between the Lancers and Chiefs in football, although the two schools have already developed a heated rivalry in other sports.

The Chiefs opened with an 18-8 loss to Detroit Western but sidelined Edwardsburg 21-12 last Friday. Mitchell is the main Chief running threat as he has picked up 220 yards this season.

"This is a do or die game for us as far as our conference hopes are concerned," voiced Buck coach Dave Shoemaker. "I think the winner of the conference will have at least one loss."

"I feel we have to do two things to beat Coloma. The No. 1 priority is to stop Bertuca (John) and second to stop their passing. They probably have the best passing attack in southwestern Michigan. I'm impressed with their two ends, especially Woodward (Gregg)."

Shoemaker is counting on improvement in his green offensive line to generate more punch.

Coloma coach Bob Irvin is casting a wary eye at the Bucks despite their winless record.

"We exchanged films with them and they looked like a very good football team against Niles. They have some fast backs this year with a big line...I know a lot bigger than we are. They have the potential to be a fine football team."

"I know they'll be up for us and we have to think in those terms. They're always tough at home."

Irvin was happy with the job produced by his offensive line in the "Comets" 20-0 pounding of Brandywine last Friday.

"Sid Myrick and Woodward both did outstanding jobs of blocking. And Rich Scherer made a key block in Bertuca's touchdown run. Our line is coming along; the rest are converted backs or jayvee players from last year."

BH May Unleash Air Attack Against Unbeaten Fruitport

Benton Harbor coach Eugene Jones might fill the air with footballs Friday night in hopes it will bring the Tigers their first victory of the season.

"Jones' Tigers will travel to Fruitport Friday, trying to snap a two-game losing streak. Benton Harbor has lost to Kalamazoo Central 33-8 and to Muskegon 34-18.

Fruitport sports a 2-0 record, having edged Coopersville 16-6 and Ludington 14-6.

"There's no question that if we can't establish a running game, we're not going to waste any time before putting the ball in the air," Jones said. "We've got probably three of the best receivers in the state and we're going to use them."

Tiger quarterback Mike Schulz has completed 27 of 50 passes thus far for 371 yards and three touchdowns. His favorite target has been Maurice Burton, who has caught nine passes for 171 yards. Willie Burton and tight end David Miles have also been valuable along with running back Ray Thompson. Thompson caught six passes coming out of the backfield against Muskegon.

"We do not have one primary receiver when we call a pass play," Jones said. "Before the ball is snapped the situation in the defensive secondary will determine who Schulz throws to."

"We put in a couple of new pass routes this week for Maurice. We feel these new routes will cope with any defense that Fruitport comes up with."

It's the passing game which worries Fruitport coach Tom Holden the most about Benton Harbor.

"Benton Harbor probably potentially has the finest quarterback in the state of Michigan in Schulz," Holden said. "We're just going to have to give a good, hard pass rush and stop their passing game."

And Fruitport has just the people who are capable of stopping the Tiger passing game. Heading the defensive line are two returning all-league tackles, Larry Kosloski and Glenn Midkiff. Kosloski is a bulky 6-4, 220-pounder while Midkiff comes in at 6-4 and 235 pounds.

Junior Mark White, a 6-3, 215-pounder, helps out at the nose guard.

"We feel that Benton Harbor's passing is extremely dangerous," Holden says. "We have to shut it off."

Fruitport has not done badly themselves through the airways. Rob McElrath has completed 12 of 15 passes for 310 yards. Holden claims the passing total is already more than all last year.

"The Tigers will be using a new defense against Fruitport."

"We're going to give the people a different look than what they're used to seeing," Jones says. "We're going to use a stunt defense and send all four linebackers. This defense is especially good against the pass or the slow handoff."

"We know they can pass but they are not branded as a passing ballclub. We're going to try and force them to pass. If they put the ball up we're going to pull it down. We'll try to get to the quarterback and take the pass away from them. The main thing we have to do is tackle."

Benton Harbor's chief problem this year has been turnovers. The Tigers have incredibly outgained their opponents 601-579 in total yardage despite losing by the two lopsided scores.

"Four lost fumbles and six interceptions have made the difference."

"Our goal is to control the football," Jones says. "We want to play our game. If we can, I believe we can win."

Career Clips

Junior wide receiver Maurice Mitchell, former Bangor high school star, played a key role in Northern Michigan's stunning 17-16 win over Central Michigan last Saturday. He had three pass receptions for 51 yards and caught a 20-yarder on a Northern touchdown drive in the third period.

Evans, Hill Get Honors

From Associated Press
Charley Evans of Ferris State College and Kim Hill of Grand Valley State College were named top back and lineman of the week in the Great Lakes Conference for their performance in weekend football games.

Evans, a 188-pounder from Mukewago, scored two touchdowns and ran for 139 yards in 24 carries for the Bulldogs in a 21-17 losing effort against Central College of Iowa.

Hill, a tackle from Muskegon Catholic Central, made 11 tackles—one a crucial stop late in the game—in a 17-13 victory over Grand Rapids Junior College.

Beaver Ace Tops Area In Rushing, Scoring

McAfee Emerging As Standout Runner

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

Don McAfee believes in allowing his actions to speak louder than his words. Maybe that's why the Eau Claire running back was voted team captain this season by his teammates.

McAfee is a modest youngster who doesn't like to be known as this year's Beaver "star." But even though he claims he is not a superstar, McAfee is building some impressive credentials.

In the first two games this year McAfee has rolled up 353 yards rushing while scoring five touchdowns and a two-point conversion. His 353 yards and 32 points are tops in the area.

"We don't have any superstars on this team," McAfee claims. "We work as a unit using team work."

"It's all up to the line. If they weren't blocking I wouldn't have gotten off to such a great start. You never hear about the line getting any credit, either. They're the ones doing the job."

Seniors Larry Bartels, a 5-10, 180-pound center, and Al Flowers, a 6-3, 185-pound monster at tackle, are the two returning starters on the offensive line. The remainder of the blocking comes from a trio of juniors: Dennis Durham (5-9, 170) and Larry Westerhoven (5-9, 180) are the guards and Mike Bailey (6-3, 185) is the other tackle.

Eau Claire coach Paul Bergen has also been pleased with the blocking from his other running backs, seniors Jerry Hopkins and Don Bailey.

"We're a very small team," Bergen admits. "What we lack in size we have to make up in speed and aggressiveness."

McAfee may shrug off the attention he's getting, but Bergen is quick with his praise of the 5-8, 170-pounder.

"His quickness and his ability to read blocks are his two biggest assets," Bergen said. "He knew he had to do it so he worked all summer on improving himself. He had to prepare himself mentally and he's really done it."

"His attitude is the big thing in getting our team together. He's very modest which is admirable in a young player. His attitude has been great for the morale of the team because he's a 100 per cent team player. He's shown the others that he's a real dedicated football player. I think it was all a matter of maturity."

Ken Brauer, an Eau Claire assistant football coach until this year and now the school's athletic director, is also pleased with McAfee.

"There's been talk in the past about him being a hot head," Brauer said. "But he's a real humble kid. McAfee is very coachable. He understands football and also understands where he has to play and what he has to do."

"He's very quick and once he gets past the line of scrimmage there are not very many people who can catch him."

Brauer claims McAfee has better moves than former Beaver star Taylor Lanier, who last season capped a great Eau Claire career with his third straight season of more than 1,000 yards rushing.

McAfee has shown off his best moves twice already this season. Against Bloomingdale, he struggled off two tacklers near the sidelines and then raced into the end zone on a 40-yard touchdown scamper without going out of bounds.

His best run of the year according to Bergen came when Eau Claire needed it most in Friday's game against New Buffalo. With the score tied at 6-6 in the fourth quarter, the Beavers had the ball on the Bison 10 yard line. The ball went to McAfee, who was hit two or three times, but spun off the tacklers and went into the end zone.

McAfee also has been a three-year starter at cornerback on left side of the defense.

"The more you're around McAfee, the more you believe that this is the turnaround year for him," Brauer said. "In the past he's always been in the shadow of someone like Lanier."

Seattle Sox, Chicago A's New Baseball Franchises?

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Seattle White Sox, the Chicago A's, the Toronto Giants, but those are some of the combinations that could be occupying the thinking of major league baseball owners assembled here today.

The owners will hear a report from the franchise committee which was created 10 months ago to deal with a multitude of the game's problems. Among those headaches are the overcrowded baseball population of the San Francisco-Oakland bay area with two clubs batling for attention from a section that seems able to support only one.

The solution, it would appear, would be to move one of the teams. But it is not all that simple. There are leases involved and breaking them could mean litigation, a problem baseball officials are all too familiar with in Seattle.

There was this team called the Pilots, who departed Seattle in 1970 after one season to become the Milwaukee Brewers. That left some unhappy people in Seattle and they initiated an anti-trust suit which is still pending.

The folks there would gladly forget the whole thing provided baseball supplies the city with another team for 1976.

A Seattle group has offered $15 million for the Giants, whom Horace Stoneham wouldn't mind selling. But Stoneham's price for the club and related real estate holdings has been quoted between $10 and $15 million.

Another solution for Seattle would be a northward move of the financially-troubled Chicago White Sox, another for sale franchise. That would allow Charles O. Finley to transfer the A's to Chicago and leave the bay area to Stoneham and the Giants, an intriguing solution.

But then, what happens to Toronto, which has made its own bid to buy the San Francisco club?

And how about Washington, deserted twice by the American League but assured a team by Commissioners Bowie Kuhn?

And what of New Orleans, with its expensive Superdome sitting in the heart of the downtown area?

Members of the committee are M. Donald Grant of the New York Mets, who serves as chairman; John McHale of the Montreal Expos; Bud Selig of the Milwaukee Brewers; Ewing Kauffman of the Kansas City Royals; Commissioner Kuhn; Lee MacPhail, President of the American League; and Chub Feeney, President of the National League.

The committee has shuffled all kinds of combinations around but it must be remembered that it operates strictly in an advisory capacity. Unanimous approval of the 12 member clubs is required to shift or sell a National League team and eight assenting votes, three-quarters approval, is required in the American League.

Thus, when today's meeting ends, it is also entirely possible that the status could remain quite quo.

Bucs' Dyer Gets Royal Treatment

Padres' Jones Gets 20th Win; Cubs Blow Huge Lead

From Associated Press

That's what he found on his stool Tuesday night after helping the Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1 — along with a lane of towels leading to his locker.

"This is a 21-towel salute, I guess," Dyer kidded. "These guys are crazy, no question."

Dyer lashed three singles, including a run-scoring hit in the sixth when the Pirates scored three runs to give Bob Moose his winning cushion.

The Pirates, who clinched the National League East by beating the Phillies the night before, were obviously at ease with the pressure off. The post-game horseplay included loud cheers when Dyer walked the towel carpet to his locker and found the post-game meal.

Moose, making his first start in three months, pitched a three-hitter and Richie Hebner singled home two runs to help the Pirates beat the Phillies. It was the 17th victory in 25 games for the Pirates.

Hebner's two-run single came in the sixth off Steve Carlton, 14-14. Dyer's single capped the rally.

In the other National League games, the San Diego Padres whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4; the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Houston Astros 5-3; the Montreal Expos blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 7-0 and the New York Mets beat the Chicago Cubs 8-6. Rain washed out the Atlanta-San Francisco game.

Randy Jones tossed an eight-hitter to earn his 20th victory as San Diego defeated Los Angeles, 20-11, was 8-22 last season. He joined the Mets' Tom Seaver as the only 20-game winners in the National League. Reliever Stan Wall, 9-1, took the loss.

Tony Perez' run-scoring double in the fourth inning drove in what proved to be the winning run and Fred Norman and newly Eastwick scattered four hits as Cincinnati edged Houston.

Pete Mackanin drove in three runs with a triple and bases-loaded walk and Mike Jorgensen clubbed a two-run homer to power Montreal past St. Louis. Pinch-hitter John Stearns doubled home the tying run in the eighth inning and scored on Felix Millan's single as New York rallied from an early six-run deficit to defeat Chicago.

Two more against Green Bay. "Teams used to concede the extra point. Now you see extra points blocked and field goals blocked," he added. "A lot of the credit goes to (Washington Coach) George Allen. He has put a lot of emphasis on special teams."

Forzano said there's no danger of roughing the kicker if the rushing players don't properly when they drive in front of him.

Forzano said unless a punter can get off his kicks fast after getting a good snap, the punt is sure to be blocked.

"With a 10-man rush there's no way you can block the 10th guy," Forzano said. "There's a fine line between getting it off and getting it blocked."

Meanwhile, Errol Mann — the Lions' premier field goal kicker — must take over the kickoff chores since specialist Alan Pringle was released Monday. Detroit tried Pringle out because he was able to get more distance than Mann on kickoffs.

"Errol's just got to do it. It's that simple," Forzano said. "He understands that. He'll have to work on his kickoffs, but his leg must be stronger because he hasn't had to do it that much."

Kicking Game Key-Forzano

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — "When things are all over," Coach Rick Forzano said, "the kicking game will have as much to do with who wins the championship as anything else."

Who in Michigan or Wisconsin would doubt him after last Sunday's game against Green Bay?

The Detroit Lions opened their National Football League season with a 30-16 victory over the Packers, turning three blocked punts into touchdowns and blocking an extra point try.

Special teams coach Ray Demsey was awarded a game ball and he hasn't stopped being ribbed since.

"Every time the phone rings, we tell him it's another TV station wanting an interview," Forzano said with a laugh Tuesday at his weekly news conference.

Only once in the exhibition season did the Lions put on such a blitz at the kicker. Apparently, they didn't want opponents to learn about the strategy before the season started.

Sunday in Atlanta the Falcons can expect much of the same all-out attack on their kickers from the Lions.

"We believe now we can block 'em and when you believe you can, it makes it easier to do," Forzano said. "We should have had two more against Green Bay.

"Teams used to concede the extra point. Now you see extra points blocked and field goals blocked," he added. "A lot of the credit goes to (Washington Coach) George Allen. He has put a lot of emphasis on special teams."

Walk-On Walking Off With 'M' Kicking Mark

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Bob Wood is a walk-on who refused to walk off when Coach Bo Schembechler ignored him.

junior from London, Ohio, has a full grant-in-aid for playing football at Michigan.

With just two more field goals the rest of the young season, he'll become the most prolific single-season field goal kicker in Wolverine history.

He booted three in the 23-6 opening triumph at Wisconsin, then four more in last Saturday's 19-19 tie with Stanford, including a 42-yarder.

"He stuck it out two years and finally I noticed him," Schembechler said.

"He's a walk-on. A good athlete. The kids love him. Our team loves and respects him. Last year, after his sophomore year, I said to him if you'll red shirt this year, I'll pay for it with a grant-in-aid."

"I told him we'd need a kicker next year since Mike Lantry would be graduating. But I told him I'd also be looking at some other kickers."

So Wood "red shirted" last year — that is, he sat out the season without losing a year's eligibility.

Nelson Ties Course Mark

Dave Nelson of Buchanan tied the Elk Hills course record of 15:55 Tuesday as the Bucks beat Colima 15-49 in high school cross country.

Buchanan's Dino Jackson was second in 16:17 followed by teammates T. Shaner in third and L. Humphrey in fourth.

Top finisher for Colima, now 43 in dual meets, was David Oakley in seventh place with a time of 17:17.

Reith Powers RV Harriers

THREE OAKS — Dave Reith took first place as River Valley rolled past Brandywine 17-41 in a Blossomland cross country meet here Tuesday. Reith ended in 16:44.

He was followed by Greg Gallas of the Bobcats and Mustangs Denny Zebell, Mark Peterson, Steve Copeland, Keith Hall and Dave Zebell. River Valley is 3-0 in league matches.

More New Faces Expected On Tigers' Roster

DETROIT (AP) — If you think the Detroit Tigers' roster was filled with new faces this year, wait until 1976.

Detroit just may celebrate the nation's Bicentennial by overhauling the rookie-filled lineup with different rookies. Although the club started almost from scratch this year, don't expect to see some of your favorites back.

"I think we're in a lot better position to now to make deals if anything is available, because we have exposed a lot of our ballplayers," said Manager Ralph Houk, whose Tigers are in Baltimore for a three-game series.

"We didn't have anyone to trade last year," he said. "All of our young players here are tradeable. Nobody is looking for someone 35 and on the downside."

Houk said he, General Manager Jim Campbell and club Vice-President Rick Ferrell "have already been discussing players we'd like to have. We're trying to get reports on players available. We'll talk to people at the World Series. You start doing that right away."

Houk said he will go to the Series, take a two-week vacation, and then go to Dunedin, Fla., to check on how ace reliever John Hiller is coming along with his injured arm. Hiller will work out with Detroit's Instructional League entry at Dunedin.

What do the Tigers need? Everything, right?

"It's evident that we have to have a power hitter," Houk said. "We have about 100 less runs than anyone else and we've got to have some power. Also, we've got to improve our pitching, but I think we can improve it within our own organization."

Young pitchers Mark Lemonello, Frank McCormack and Mark Fidrych of the Tigers' Junior World Series champion Evansville farm club may be on Detroit's roster next year.

"Everybody is talking about those pitchers, everybody," Houk said.

He's also impressed with rookie G-men Ed Glynn and Steve Grilli, brought up from Evansville a week ago.

"You don't like to get too gay, too quick, but he's been impressive," Houk said of Glynn. "And I like the way (Bob) Molinaro swings a bat. He's aggressive."

Outfielder Molinaro, plus infielders Chuck Scrivener and Jerry Manuel, came up with Glynn and Grilli.

Outfielders Ron LeFlore and Leon Roberts, both disappointments but still with plenty of potential, may be trade bait. Others include second basemen Gary Sutherland and John Knox, plus pitchers Joe Coleman, Lerrin LaGrow, Dave Lemanczyk and Tom Walker.

Rookie outfielders Billy Baldwin and Art James might be traded, depending on what happens to LeFlore and Roberts.

Veteran Gates Brown probably made his last appearance at Tiger Stadium on Sunday when he walked as a pinch hitter.

One report says Brown, the American League's most prolific pinch hitter, will retire at the end of the season to become a Tiger scout.

Fennville Wins

FENNVILLE — Fennville's Ken Hoeche took medalist honors at 41 as the Blackhawk golfers defeated Saugatuck 177-178 here Monday.

Injured Plunkett Doubtful

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — New England quarterback Jim Plunkett exercised his mending shoulder in pass drills here Tuesday, but Coach Chuck Fairbanks says he'll make the decision on when Plunkett will return to the lineup.

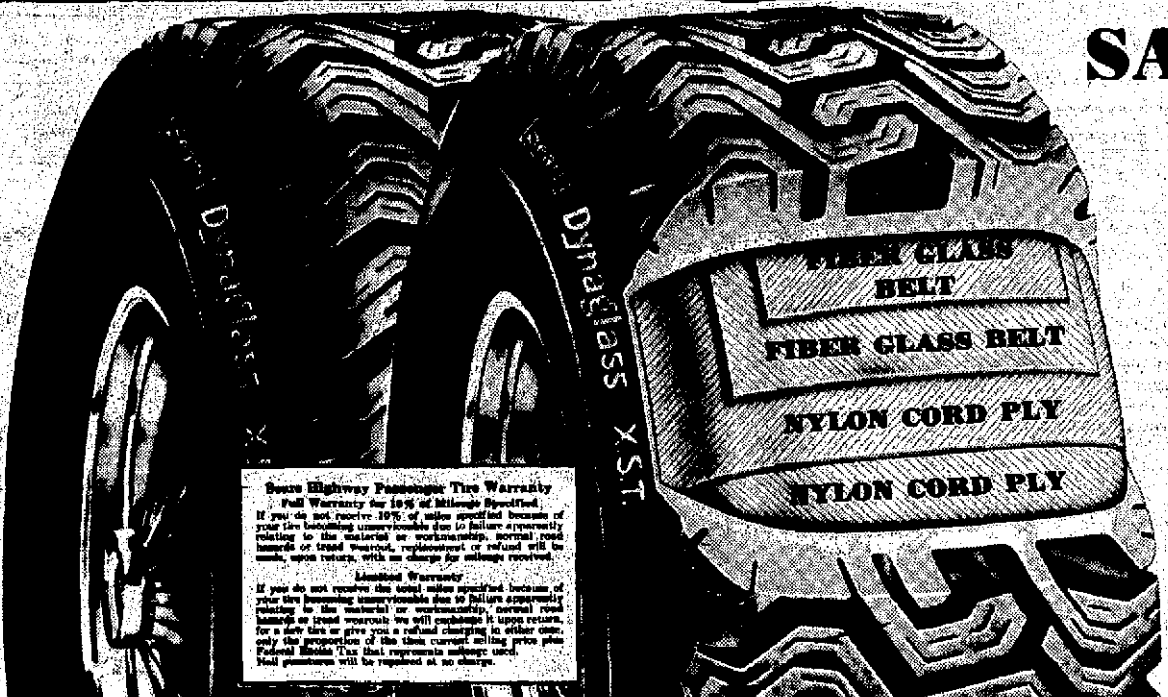

Plunkett, who suffered a separated left shoulder less than three weeks ago, is a "doubtful starter" for Sunday's game against Miami in Schechter Stadium here.

Plunkett took snaps from center and threw to several receivers.

"He's throwing okay and had no problem taking the ball from center," Fairbanks said. "From a mechanical standpoint, his biggest problem would be handing off left handed."

"The next thing we'll have to determine is the degree of pain and discomfort and when that will subside," Fairbanks said. "Jim will know when he feels all right and is ready to play."

U.S. Car Makers Hail New Fuel Mileage Ratings

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Federal figures for 1976 model cars should help dispel "the erroneous impression" that only foreign makes get good fuel economy, U.S. auto executives said Tuesday.

For the first time since the government began testing cars for fuel economy, at least one American-built "auto" ranks alongside imports with the best gasoline mileage.

And for the first time in three years of testing, the worst gas-guzzlers are imports, not American "land-cruisers."

According to 1976-model fuel mileage ratings released by the Environmental Protection Agency on Monday, two versions of the new minicar Chevrolet Chevette are among the top five gasoline-misers.

Of the top 50, 23 models are U.S.-built. And .03 American models are among the 100 averaging 20 miles per gallon of gasoline or better in combined city and highway driving tests.

"Purely in terms of public perception, it's going to help us," a General Motors Corp. spokesman said Tuesday. "We hope the public will realize what we've been saying all along: We do just as well as anybody when it comes to fuel economy."

Auto engineers point out there is no magic to good fuel economy. Smaller cars with less weight to be propelled use the least gasoline.

The U.S. companies have argued their 1975 cars got better fuel economy than imports when vehicles of the same weight class were compared. Government statistics confirm that contention.

Until this year, however, only foreign manufacturers had cars in the lowest weight group tested by the EPA.

But now GM's Chevette is comparable in size and weight to the small imports. Predictably, the car got the best fuel mileage of any U.S.-built model.

One version of the Chevette tied for first on the mileage chart with the Datsun B-210 and Subaru at a combined city-highway rating of 33 m.p.g.

A year ago, the top-rated domestic car, the Chevrolet Vega, finished 13th on the list. The Vega also was the most-fuel efficient U.S. car in 1974, finishing fifth on the list.

FORMER PSC CHIEF

Prosecutor Hints Bias

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Genesee County prosecutor claims a "shadow of suspicion" lies on former state Public Service Commission Chairman William Rosenberg.

Robert Leonard cited Rosenberg at a news conference Tuesday for possible bias in rate hikes given Consumers Power Co. to pay for its Marysville nuclear gas plant.

Leonard admitted, however, that he couldn't point to any specific evidence of criminal actions by Rosenberg.

Leonard repeated his earlier questions about Rosenberg's unofficial involvement in Consumers' requests to allow charging customers for the $150 million Marysville gas reforming plant.

Leonard said Rosenberg's actions in connection with those requests and a consultant's report on Marysville raise the specter of perjury, conspiracy to commit perjury and attempts to hide such actions.

"If they (the questions) go unanswered there are certainly indications here of wrongdoing," Leonard said in a news conference.

Rosenberg left the PSC last August for a post in the Federal Energy Administration. The Senate Interior committee may confirm his appointment by President Ford this week.

Rosenberg has called Leonard's statements "wild accusations."

He (Leonard) admits he has no evidence," Rosenberg said, "just personal opinion. He had a chance to present proof of his accusations but a hearing was held Sept. 18 and Leonard didn't show up."

"I feel the prosecutor should deal with facts and not personal opinion," Rosenberg said.

Consumers Power is currently asking the PSC for a $4 million rate hike to finish paying for the Marysville plant. The commission has already granted an interim increase of $2 million by a 2-1 vote — with Rosenberg in favor.

The PSC earlier allowed Consumers to charge customers for $120 million of the total cost.

Leonard said his accusations stem from a Stanford Research Institute report on the Marysville plant prepared for the PSC by James Moll. The report included a recommendation to charge the plant's cost to customers.

That recommendation had no place in a technical study by an outside agency, the two other PSC members said.

Leonard claims sworn affidavits from Moll contradict each other. The first, Leonard says, quotes Moll as saying he told Rosenberg the recommendation was outside the research contract's scope. Leonard charges that in the second, Moll can't remember if he told Rosenberg or not.

Leonard had subpoenaed Rosenberg and Moll for cross-examination before a PSC hearings examiner last week. The examiner quashed the subpoena at Rosenberg's request, and Moll reportedly said he would not leave California.

Leonard said he brought up the subject of a possible PSC grand jury investigation during a telephone conversation with Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley "three or four days ago."

He (Kelley) said he was going to look at it. He didn't make any kind of commitment, or anything... He said he would talk to Hugh Anderson (chief of the special litigation division)," Leonard said.

Allegan, Other Counties May Recieve Disaster Aid

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken on Tuesday asked President Ford to declare 16 Michigan counties disaster areas because of damage suffered from heavy rain and flooding between Aug. 21 and Sept. 6. One of them is Allegan county.

The counties suffered an estimated $1.32 million in damage to public property and $1.39 million in damage to private property, the governor said.

Most of the counties were among the 29 that also suffered an estimated $78.46 million in agricultural damage during the same period, Milliken said.

Assistance for those losses, however, must be handled under a different program. State officials said it may be a month before counties complete their estimates of losses.

Federal aid for property damage would be in the form of outright financial grants to the stricken areas, according to Lt. Zane Grey, State Police emergency services division chief.

Milliken said in his letter to Ford that an estimated 1,100 homes, 38 businesses and 4,100 farms had damages of some magnitude and significant damage was done road and street systems, drainage channels, dams, dikes, parks and facilities under construction.

The 16 counties recommended for aid were: Allegan, Clare, Genesee, Gratiot, Ingham, Isabella, Mecosta, Midland, Montcalm, Muskegon, Newaygo, Oceana, Oshtemo, Otsego, Saginaw and Shiawassee.

Milliken told Ford that it was "beyond the capabilities of the state and local government" to handle the damage.

"Eleven county governments are in a state of financial distress due to costs experienced during the April 16-30 declared flood disaster," Milliken said. "In addition, many local jurisdictions are economically depressed, have lower-level public facilities with less durability, and have little or no contingency funds available. State government is unable to provide funds to assist local governments."

In order to get an agriculture disaster declaration, each county has 90 days to prepare information for the governor, who then writes to the secretary of agriculture, requesting aid. A disaster declaration would entitle farmers who cannot get credit elsewhere to low-interest federal loans.

The 29 counties: Allegan, Arenac, Bay, Clinton, Eaton, Genesee, Gratiot, Isabella, Kent, Macomb, Mecosta, Midland, Muskegon, Newaygo, Oceana, Otsego, Saginaw, Shiawassee, Tuscola and Washtenaw.

Seventeen Requirements

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Upper Peninsula Generating Co. must meet 17 new requirements before construction may begin on new electric generating units in Marquette. Company officials said they had no major objections to the 17 demands made Tuesday by the staff of the state Air Pollution Control Commission. When completed, the three new 80-megawatt coal-fired generating units will serve Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company's enlarged mining operations. The construction permit conditions, among other things: specify allowable pollutant emission levels; limit coal pile heights to 30 feet; require a 10-foot fence along east and north property lines; and restrict coal pile machinery such as bulldozers to running between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. The staff report to the commission also restated last Saturday's notice of the staff's "intent to recommend that the commission approve" Cliffs Electric's construction permit for generating units 7, 8 and 9. The new units will be run by Upper Peninsula Generating, owner of existing units 1 through 6 and a partial subsidiary of Cliffs Electric.

BERRIEN COUNTY YOUTH FAIR

BERRIEN SPRINGS, MICHIGAN

A Heartfelt "Thank You" . . .

In behalf of the Berrien Youth Fair Association and the 4,000 youth exhibitors who participated in the 1975 Youth Fair, I would like to thank everyone who helped to make the fair the success that it was. It would be impossible to thank every one of all who helped in the space that we have, but I would like to mention a few of the groups who helped so much.

The Berrien County Sheriff's Office had charge of parking vehicles as they lined for entry years of the Youth Fair, manned by men Ray Brown and 4-H Club members. They do their best to park everyone in the best advantage and in a courteous manner.

The Berrien County Sheriff's Department, the Michigan State Police, and the Berrien Springs-Berrien County Fair, directed traffic at the three highway entrances and provided the grounds as clean as possible. They are assisted by special deputies from the Sheriff's Department, and a host of volunteer police from different parts of the County. The Berrien County Emergency Patrol aided with communications and traffic again this year. Berrien County of St. Joseph and White House of St. Joseph provided the within-fair area to keep all parts of the fair grounds in constant communication.

The Berrien County Sheriff's Department from White House and the Youth Fair Association. They are assisted by volunteer Brown from off over the county. They are always willing to help with anything—from taking last orders to helping a frustrated mother find a lost child. They keep a close eye on every one on duty 24 hours a day for the protection during Fair Week. They also make a safety inspection before and after the fair.

Ambulance service was provided by Gold Green Ambulance Service of White, Action Ambulance Service of Berrien Harbor, 241 Ambulance of Berrien Springs and volunteer units from various Township units. The American Red Cross volunteer program provided qualified nurses on duty each day in the First Aid Station.

The John A. Vanhook Construction Company of Berrien Harbor donated ground and equipment for the midway improvements.

Unquestionably to the Berrien County Youth Fair Association. They are always willing to help with anything—from taking last orders to helping a frustrated mother find a lost child. They keep a close eye on every one on duty 24 hours a day for the protection during Fair Week. They also make a safety inspection before and after the fair.

The Indiana and Michigan State Company arrived eight days before the fair to help with the grounds and roadways of the three entrances to the Youth Fair. The Ohio Chemical Paper Co. donated all paper used for printing exhibit buildings and brochures.

Shelton Sign Company of White and the last body of Berrien Harbor painted every sign to help off fair-goers around the grounds. Signs such as building names and number, direction signs in the parking lots, entrance, exit, etc., were all their and helpful.

The Berrien County Road Commission provided equipment for road grading and maintenance of roads throughout the Youth Fair grounds.

The many youth group leaders and individuals who helped the exhibit committee on appointments, days, and so forth. They devote many, many hours during the week of the fair and the rest of the year they are thinking and planning about what can be done to make the next year's fair just a little better.

The people from newspapers, radio and television who encourage the youth exhibitors with stories, photos, and interviews are to be remembered.

The Commercial Exhibitors who spent a great deal of time, money and effort in setting up an attractive exhibit, and so much to the overall appearance of the fair grounds and buildings. For cooperation in the summer of the 1975 outstanding commercial displays: Building No. 34-Border Old Shop of White, Building No. 35-Berrien Industries, Indian Jewelry of Berrien.

The many volunteers that come mostly of church groups and service organizations of Berrien County under a great service. It would be impossible to have a successful fair without them.

The many Berrien County Boys, including individuals and teams, are thanked for their attendance and for providing the quality meat in support of the youth of Berrien County. Added thanks to the buyers of the first poultry and rabbit auction which proved very successful.

The Fair Ground, Youth Market of Berrien Harbor, and the Fair Shop, the bulk of Coloma, were in attendance at all events during the fair carrying out their Royal duties. The sponsors of the flag and the Berrien County gift certificate were appreciated. County-Boyscouts American Agency of White and the Friends of White, Berrien County Berrien County Apple Show, Junior Symphony of Whiteville was in attendance and most appreciated for her help.

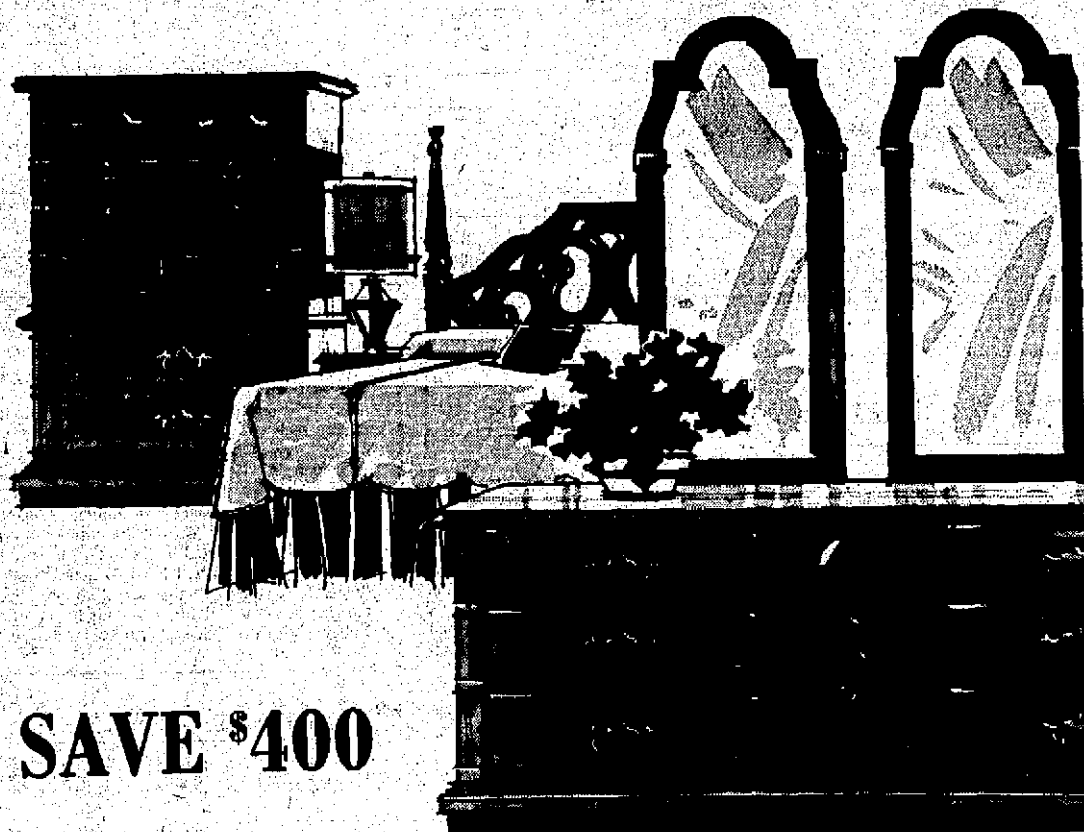

To all these people plus many, many more not mentioned, I would like to express my sincere thanks and trust that you will continue to help the Berrien County Youth Fair Association make better things for your youth in Berrien County.

Berrien County Youth Fair Association membership are available. The members of the Board of Directors would appreciate receiving any suggestions that would help make the 1976 fair bigger and better. Thank you for your cooperation.

Susan Ford To Work For AP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Susan Ford, the President's 18-year-old daughter, will start work next week as a part-time photographer in the Washington bureau of The Associated Press, the White House announced.

Press Secretary Sheila Widenfeld said Tuesday that Susan will be on general assignment, covering a variety of Washington events for The AP.

GM To Increase Chevette Output

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. plans to increase production of its new mini-Chevrolet Chevette from a current 60 units an hour to 65 an hour before January, according to GM President Elliott M. Estes.

The Chevette, America's first modern mini-sized car, doesn't go on sale officially until Oct. 1. But Estes said Monday, "Based on our current feel for the car, we are planning to increase our basic line rate before the end of the calendar year." The Chevette, which shared the top fuel economy rating for 1976 cars based on federal test results released Monday, went into production in mid-August at GM's Wilmington, Del., assembly plant.

Estes said earlier GM planned to step up the car's output beyond 60 units an hour from time to time by scheduling overtime for hourly workers. However, GM now will permanently increase production by increasing assembly line speed, which will result in the recall of an undetermined number of workers on indefinite layoff, Estes said.

The new rate would mean annual production of 280,000 Chevettes. Chevrolet officials predicted last week they would sell about 275,000 of the minicars in its first year.

Kelley Orders Halt To Magazine Claims

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has told an Iowa printer to stop implying he is affiliated with the Michigan State Police and publishes its magazine.

Kelley said he has issued a cease and desist order against David E. Carlson, who operates the "State Police Journal" in Mason City, Iowa. The order also tells Carlson to stop representing the journal as published in Washington D.C. and is an official government publication.

"I am convinced that merchants and businessmen may buy advertising space thinking they are supporting our State Police, when in fact, I am informed the 'Journal' has never published an edition for this state and is not authorized or supported by the State Police," Kelley said.

Kelley said Carlson will have 48 hours to agree to stop "using false, misleading or deceptive advertising," or the attorney general will file a lawsuit to force him to stop. Kelley said State Police told him about the matter.

Subsidiary Of AMC Awarded Bus Contract

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors' bus-making subsidiary, AM General, has been awarded $34.5 million in contracts to build 514 transit buses for three U.S. cities, the firm announced Tuesday.

AM General said the contracts include 309 buses for Minneapolis-St. Paul, $20.3 million; 145 for Seattle, $18.3 million, and 60 for Indianapolis, $3.9 million.

Minneapolis-St. Paul also has an option on 29 additional units at $1.9 million, the subsidiary said.

The new awards bring to 2,785 the number of transit buses ordered by 33 transit authorities in the two years since AM General entered the transit bus field.

FIRST AMERICANS Indians were spreading throughout both South and North America in 8000 B.C.

OPEN HOUSE SET: Open house for University plaza in Berrien Springs is scheduled to start today and continue for two weeks. Shopping mall opened Aug. 11. Included are Apple Valley market, the Family Center (a variety store), and Greeting Gallery, a card and gift shop. Plaza is development of Berrien Enterprises Inc., commercial arm of Andrews university in Berrien Springs. Plaza is off US-31, across from Berrien county fairgrounds. Apple Valley market replaces old University market which had been located on university grounds near by. Plaza construction cost was over $1 million and was handled by AU's plant services department.

Keeler Crash Kills Rural BH Teenager

KEELER — A RURAL Benton Harbor youth was killed and seven other people injured in a two-car accident north of here last night.

KEVIN D. BOMKE
Killed in crash

State police at Paw Paw, said Kevin D. Bomke, 15, Nichols road, Benton Harbor, was pronounced dead on arrival at Watervliet Community hospital. Troopers said Bomke, a passenger in a car driven by Steve Duday, 17, 348 Bluffview, Watervliet, was thrown from the vehicle when it hit a car driven by James Montgomery, 44, Decatur, at the intersection of CR-687 and 72nd avenue at 7:30 p.m.

Police said the Duday auto was eastbound on 72nd while the Montgomery car was northbound on CR-687 when the crash occurred. The impact spun both cars into a ditch.

According to police, the Duday auto was required to stop before crossing onto the county road. Duday was listed in fair condition in Memorial hospital, St. Joseph.

Three other passengers in his car were admitted to Watervliet community hospital. Dennis Bailey, 14, route 3, Park street, Watervliet, and Mark Bolin, 15, 225 Southernland, Watervliet, were both listed in fair condition and Mike Evans, 15, 448 South Pleasant, Watervliet, was in good condition.

Montgomery and two passengers in his car, Shirley M. Montgomery, 34, and Temple Montgomery, 8, all of 77th avenue, Decatur, were treated and released from Watervliet Community hospital.

Bomke was the 12th person killed in an auto accident on Van Buren county roads this year. Troopers said the accident remains under investigation.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at the Kerley and Starks funeral home, St. Joseph.

Bangor School Panel Will Air Findings

BANGOR — A special committee formed to study Bangor school district needs will discuss its preliminary findings in a public meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday, at the high school auditorium. Announcement of the meeting was made yesterday by Paul French, chairman of the 13-member committee made up of teachers, school board members, school district residents and board critics. The committee was formed Sept. 9, after school district voters had rejected for the third time in four months a proposed tax levy to help finance school operations.

The tax defeats have led to staff and program cuts at the school.

'United Way Day'

BUCHANAN — United Way of Buchanan officials proclaimed today "United Way Day" here, and mapped plans for the organization's 1976 fund drive during a kickoff breakfast yesterday. Robert Powers, Buchanan United Way chairman for 1976, said that United Way representatives will launch a full-scale campaign drive at local industries and businesses today.

United Way is shooting for a $53,963 goal for 1976, up $1,391 from the 1975 goal of $52,572.

Powers told United Way workers and community leaders gathered at the Masonic lodge here for yesterday's kickoff event that he hoped the major portion of the campaign effort would be completed by the end of today. He said some canvassing might continue for several days at plants with multiple shifts.

Receipt of the first gift for 1976 was also announced at yesterday's meeting. Mrs. Mable Mumme presented Powers with a $150 check from residents of Metea Court. Metea Court is a senior citizens apartment development in Buchanan.

Highway Fatality

An autopsy Tuesday revealed a former Twin Cities resident died of an injury resulting from a car-truck collision Monday night on M-140 south of Watervliet.

Clifford Leon Green, 48, West Branch, Mich., was killed when the car he was driving apparently veered from the northbound to the southbound lane and slammed into the rear side of a semi-truck. The accident occurred shortly before 10 p.m.

at North Branch road on M-140, Bainbridge township.

Berrien assistant medical examiner Dr. Richard Lühner, said Green's death was caused by a ruptured aorta in the heart.

The fatality brought Berrien county's highway death toll to 38 for the year compared to 21 at the same time a year ago. Thirty-four people were killed in traffic accidents in all of 1974 in the county.

Officials withheld counting Green's death as a traffic fatality until after the autopsy because it was learned after the accident he had a history of heart trouble.

The driver of the truck, Lovell C. Montgomery, 29, Indianapolis, Ind., was unhurt.

Van Buren Units To Get $179,832 In Disaster Aid

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Van Buren county and three of its municipalities will receive $179,832 in federal disaster aid for damages caused by a severe storm which struck the county last April 18.

The figures were contained in a report presented to county commissioners last night by Sheriff Richard Stump, Van Buren emergency preparedness director, and Sgt. Richard Gordenier, district coordinator for the state police emergency services division.

Gordenier said that thus far checks totaling $76,700 have been distributed, with Bangor city receiving $5,494, Covert township $3,867, South Haven city $3,871, the county drain commissioner $15,965, and the county road commission $47,550.

The remaining $103,133 of the grant will also go to the road commission at a future date, Gordenier said.

The funds, made available through the federal disaster assistance administration were earmarked to cover replacement of such items as roads, bridges, and culverts washed out by the April flooding, Gordenier noted.

He said 17 county families who suffered property damage have also applied for assistance, and may receive grants of up to $5,000 once their applications are processed.

It appears however, Gordenier said, that Van Buren will not be eligible for any federal assistance for damages caused by a storm Aug. 20-30.

"I think our office of emergency preparedness has stepped up and met the situation head on several times," board Chairman Walter Sticksels said. "I think the sheriff's department, Sgt. Gordenier and Lt. (Robert) Small have done an excellent job."

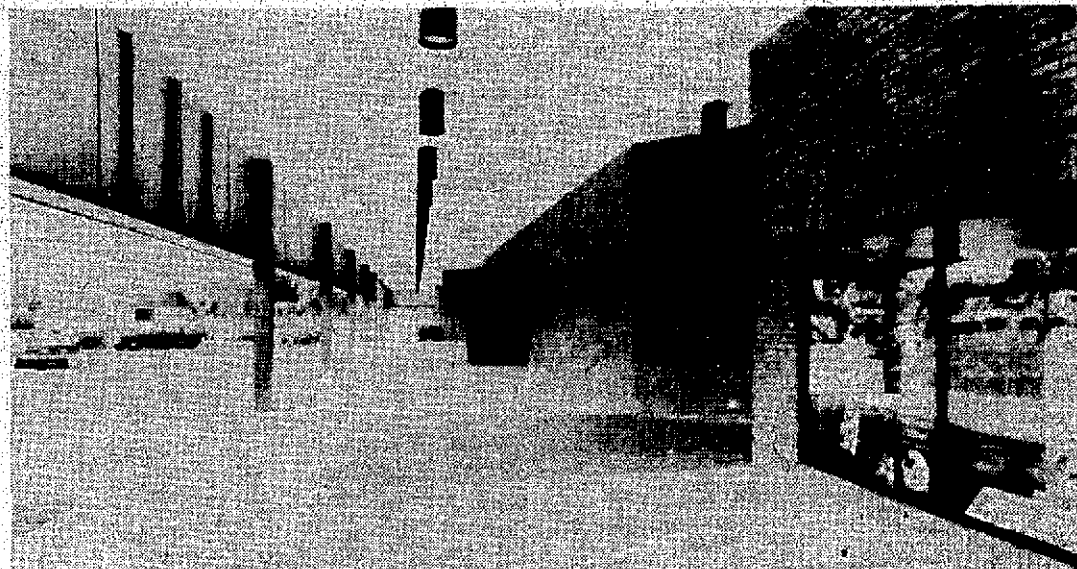

Small is deputy director of county emergency preparedness.

In other areas, commissioners discussed but took no action on implementing dog control ordinances. Commissioner Donald Hanson, administrative affairs committee chairman, said a dog census program and decision on whether the county wants to get into a program of selling dogs should be acted on in the near future.

Commissioner Gerald Rendel said he thought a new dog shelter could be built by next year, with a possibility that financing could come by raising dog license fees.

The board also renewed the cooperative reimbursement program the county Friend of the Court office has with the state. Under the program, the state furnishes the Friend of the Court with money to hire extra investigators to follow up on persons delinquent on ADC payments. If the additional collections amount to more than the state grant, no money must be repaid.

Last year, Hanson said, the state gave the Friend of the Court $17,000 which led to collection of some $34,000 in arrearages.

SHELTERED WALKWAY: This is view of sheltered walkway at University plaza. Total floor area of plaza is 48,000 square feet and parking lots cover additional two acres, according to spokesman for Andrews University. Plaza is commercial arm of school. Two-week open house celebration begins today and features free samples, prizes and reduced items at plaza stores. One of plaza stores, Apple Valley Market, will produce own bread; has seven checkout stands; and also offers natural foods and bulk quantities of fruits and vegetables from local growers. Vegetable meat analogues are offered instead of meat.

GIFT SHOP: Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Perock of Berrien Springs own Greeting Gallery, one of three stores in University plaza in Berrien Springs. Mrs. Perock, above, said store handles complete line of cards and giftware and specializes in wedding invitations and accessories. (Staff photos)

NATURAL FOODS SECTION: David Dent, manager of Apple Valley market in University plaza, receives sample banana chips from Joanne Kellogg, natural foods department manager, in preparation for two-week open house at plaza. Dent said natural foods department carries some 150 varieties of old-fashioned grains, nuts and other foods. Items will be scooped from bins and weighed on spot.

Call New Hospital Hearing

WATERVLIET — A proposal by Watervliet Community hospital to build a $5.2 million, 70-bed replacement for its existing hospital will be detailed at a public hearing at 3 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30, at St. Joseph's Catholic church, Lucinda lane, Watervliet.

The meeting has been called by the health facilities committee of the Southwestern Michigan Comprehensive Health Planning association.

Following the public hearing, the committee will make its recommendation to the full association board, which in turn will make a recommendation to the state health department as to whether the program should be undertaken.

Final approval will be handed down by the state, according to Howard J. Parker, hospital administrator.

Parker urged people living in the Watervliet, Hartford and Coloma area to attend the meeting and say whether they want a new hospital.

Plans were unveiled in mid-June by Richard Lindenberg, president of the hospital board of trustees, to build a replacement on a nearby location for the existing 63-bed, acute-care facility. The plans are conditional, pending approval from the state health department.

Replacement was approved by the board of trustees to correct deficiencies cited by the state public health department which include lack of space and internal and external obsolescence.

The new hospital, if approved, could be readily expanded on the new site to meet bed needs through 1990, according to Parker. The replacement program includes construction of approximately 56,000 square feet on three levels.

Methods of financing the new facility include a low interest loan and public subscription.

The hospital's original frame building was constructed in 1884. A two-story brick building was erected in 1954, and the latest addition was made in 1968.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Advances Broadly

NEW YORK (AP) — Hopes that oil exporting nations would post no more than a moderate price increase sparked a broad advance in the stock market today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up about four points shortly after the opening, and gainers outpaced losers by more than a 4-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries began a meeting today to set prices effective Oct. 1.

Iraq's oil minister, Abdul Karim, told reporters at the meeting that the consensus among OPEC members called for a 10 per cent increase.

Iraq felt a boost of between 22 and 30 per cent would be fair, he said, but it would accept the more moderate figure on a short-term basis.

Today's early prices included U.S. Steel, up 1/4 at $49.44; Fluor, up 1/4 at $24.75; Sony, unchanged at $12.50; and Chrysler, up 1/4 at $10.75.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrial average finished with a 35-point rise at 819.85.

Declines outnumbered advances by about an 8-5 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index dipped 66 to 46.06.

Big Board volume slowed to 12.80 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .46 at 94.14.

Hoover Buying Division

Hoover Ball and Bearing Company, of Ann Arbor, has announced an agreement in principle for the purchase of the Springfield, Mass., Cast Products Division of Koehring Company, headquartered in Milwaukee.

The price was announced as slightly less than $4 million cash with the transaction subject to approval of the boards of both companies.

Springfield Cast Products is a leading manufacturer of machine systems and molds used for the production of structural foam products such as building components and automotive parts. The acquisition would expand Hoover's capabilities in urethane products and plastic machine systems.

Hoover Ball and Bearing is 50 per cent owned by the Hoover-Ugine Company which operates a wire rod manufacturing plant north of Bridgman. Koehring Company owns an engineering division in Benton Harbor.

Episcopal Bishop Resigns His Post

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The Episcopal House of Bishops has accepted the resignation of the Rt. Rev. Robert P. Varley, believed to be the first bishop of the church ever to admit publicly that he received treatment for alcoholism and drug addiction.

The Nebraska bishop offered his resignation after four of his largest parishes stopped making contributions to the diocesan budget at the start of 1973 while he was receiving treatment.

ELEPH FACES FIGHT
WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas S. Kleppe appears headed for confirmation as Interior Secretary, with senators of both parties predicting he'll win final Senate approval.

FEDERAL LAW ON NO-FAULT?

It took from 1911 to 1948 — a startling 37 years — for every state in the U.S. to pass worker's compensation insurance laws. And when all were law, no two were alike. No-fault auto insurance apparently is heading for the same fate. Even after 10 years of public debate, no-fault insurance laws are in effect in fewer than one-third of our states. And the 16 states that do have genuine no-fault laws on their books do not provide what are considered totally adequate benefits or cost curbs.

Basically, good no-fault legislation:

Allows accident victims to recover their medical and hospital expenses and lost income from their own insurance company, regardless of who was at fault in the accident.

Provides for broader, more readily available benefits.

Pays for the cost of these broader benefits by a limitation on "nuisance" lawsuits (although the victim's access to court in more serious cases is fully retained).

Virtually every segment of the public — labor, business, consumer organizations, educators, public officials, the press — has endorsed the concept of no-fault. The notable exception is the personal liability bar — and since lawyers are heavily represented in state legislatures, it is more than likely that the personal liability bar will make sure that progress in the state legislatures continues dishearteningly slow.

Thus, bills have been introduced in Congress — S. 354 in the Senate, H.R. 1900 in the House — that would push the states into acting within a specified time. Failing voluntary state action, a federal system would be imposed.

Distasteful as another federal "layer" may seem to you, it is obvious that no-fault will be a long, long time arriving without this sort of prodding.

In the Senate, the no-fault bill has been sent by the Commerce Committee to the full chamber. In the House, it is awaiting a public outcry from us, America's motorists and key beneficiaries. Chances for passage are reported touch-and-go.

The threat of climbing cost has been raised by opponents to the federal guidelines — but this seems to be fading. Initially, opponents claimed our auto insurance costs could go up as much as 17 per cent; this was revised downward to a rise of 4 per cent; revised downward again to actual cost savings of as much as 10 per cent, a calculation comparable to that of

AMC Has Lowest Priced '76 Car

By OWEN ULLMANN

Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. has reprised its basic subcompact Gremlin at $2,899 to win the auto industry's race for the lowest-priced American car in 1976.

AMC's action Tuesday, apparently the last chapter in the industry's 1976 economy car pricing battle, slipped the Gremlin $6 below the price of the Ford Pinto, which had the lowest sticker for five days.

AMC, the smallest of the nation's four major auto companies, also announced a $190 or 4.8 per cent average increase in the base prices of all its 1976 cars.

The increase includes a $144 increase in the base price — ranging from $25 for one compact Hornet model to $200 for the Pacer — and a $46 hike in options.

Spokesmen for Ford and General Motors said those companies have no immediate plans to reprice their economy cars to undercut the Gremlin.

However, final prices were not set until Tuesday.

AMC said it is raising prices on new Jeep models an average $206, ranging from $100 for the base model to $375 for large trucks.

The contest for the lowest-priced domestic car began a week ago, when GM announced a $2,899 base price for a stripped-down version of its new Chevette. Two days later, Ford Motor Co. announced a $2,895 sticker price for a special economy model of the Pinto, which was the lowest-priced car in 1975 at $2,769.

Following Ford's announcement, AMC officials said they would review their Gremlin prices.

Base prices do not include options, shipping charges, dealer preparation costs or taxes. Although they are the manufacturers' suggested retail prices, dealers may sell for less.

AMC's average price hike, including options, for its 1976 cars compares with a $288 increase by GM and a $247 boost by Ford. On a percentage basis increases at all three companies are virtually identical.

However, AMC's dollar increase is lower because its predominantly small-car models retail for less on the average than GM or Ford cars.

Chrysler Corp., which has not announced prices on its 1976 models yet, does not have a domestic subcompact car which could be priced below the Gremlin.

Under the new AMC prices, three 1976 compact Hornet models will list for $3,199, reflecting increases of $25 to $125. Last year, the two-door sedan Hornet carried a sticker price of $3,074, the four-door model listed for $3,124 and the hatchback retailed for $3,174.

The Pacer will list for $3,499, compared with $3,299 for a 1975 model, and the midsize Matador two-door coupe will retail for $3,621, up $175 from $3,446 for a 1975 model.

ON MONEY MARKETS

Dollar Value Climbs; Pound Hits New Low Thursday

By ED BLANCHE

Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar continued to climb today on Europe's money markets.

The British pound fell to a new low while gold made a modest rally.

The pound slithered down to $2.03, while across the Channel the dollar was selling for 2.6747 West German marks, 2.7357 Swiss francs and 4.5862 French francs.

Closing prices Tuesday were $2.0442 for the pound, 2.6680 marks, 2.7206 Swiss francs and 4.5862 French francs.

The dollar has been bolstered by increasing confidence that the U.S. economy is recovering and by the high interest rates being paid in the United States.

Meanwhile, the pound is being battered because of the belief that the British government cannot control inflation and reverse the chronic balance of payments deficit. The Bank of England went into the market to buy pounds Tuesday after the price fell to $2.0367, and financial commentators reported speculation that the bank could not prevent a drop below $2 if the dollar continued to improve.

The price of gold, which usually rises when the dollar rises, has fallen more than $5 an ounce from its all-time peak of $197.50 on Dec. 30. Dealers speculated that the improvement in early trading today was a reaction to Tuesday's big drop and that the slump will continue.

The price rose 75 cents — to $190.50 — in early dealing on the London market. It got a $3 boost in Zurich to open at $131 after falling $8.50 on that market Tuesday. The drop in London Tuesday was $6.25.

Financial sources said the French and the Japanese had renewed efforts to arrange a five-power economic meeting this fall. The British newspaper The Guardian reported Sir John Hunt, secretary to Prime Minister Harold Wilson's cabinet, would fly to New York early next month for talks with U.S., West German, French and Japanese officials on the monetary situation.

"We find it shocking that Mr. Douglas would abandon the dissatisfied stockholders group which he himself formed," the group said in a letter to shareholders. "We think it is even more shocking that he should do so under circumstances in which he is to receive personal employment benefits."

Weisel said he was pleased that the proxy battle is over.

"I think it will eliminate any further confrontation, which, I think, would be harmful to the company," he said.

Major Kysor products include truck equipment, builders' hardware, machine tools and refrigeration equipment.

Woman Injured In BH, Benton Purse Snatchings

Two purse snatchings were reported in Benton township and Benton Harbor police Tuesday. One woman received minor injuries when struck in the face and knocked down.

Anna Mae Jones, 1734 Plympton avenue, told township officers a youth grabbed her purse as she was leaving the Lomonaco supermarket, 2548 Territorial road about 12:40 p.m. Her injuries did not require medical treatment, police said.

The youth, she told police, ran to the rear of the store and was picked up by a car with two other young men in it. The purse, which had no money in it when taken, was found nearby a short time later.

City police said a youth who snatched Margo Miller's purse while she was riding her bike on Pavone street near May street about 3:30 p.m., got just $2 in cash. Mrs. Miller, 977 Ogden avenue, Benton Harbor, told police there were house keys, credit cards, a checkbook and personal papers in her purse. She was unhurt.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said a Fairplain man escaped injury when a rifle aimed at him didn't fire late Tuesday night.

William Kintup, 777 East Napier avenue, Napier Manor apartments, told troopers he came out of his apartment about 11:25 p.m. to see four youths then allegedly breaking into a small storage building. One of the men, Kintup said, pointed the gun at him saying, "I'll blow you away," then pulled the trigger.

Kintup said he ran back inside his apartment and got a shotgun, but the four had fled. Troopers said they believe the rifle was the only item taken from the shed, used for storage by apartment tenants.

Citizens band radios were a popular target in thefts reported Tuesday to Twin Cities area police.

Two women, who told Benton township police they parked their cars in the Fairplain Plaza parking lot last night while attending a bingo game, reported radios stolen. Elsie Keith, 863 Paw Paw avenue, Benton township, said her radio was valued at $170. Janet Snelling, 1895 Lakeshore drive, St. Joseph, said the radio in her car was valued at $200.

Joseph Oles, Berrien Springs, told state police of the Benton Harbor post his CB radio, valued at $125, was taken from his pickup while it was parked in a lot at 2305 M-126, Benton township.

Thefts reported to Benton Harbor police were:

- A chain saw and .22 caliber rifle, valued at $330, stolen from a garage owned by Lake Construction company, Holland, docked on the St. Joseph river near West Main street.
- Frozen meat, recorded tapes, a lamp and sheets, all valued at about $220, from the apartment of Norman Lewis, 324 North Winans street.

Berrien sheriff's deputies Tuesday investigated the theft of a clock radio and a tape recorder, valued at $250, from the Christ Lutheran school, 4333 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville.

State police of the Benton Harbor post arrested a Chicago man Tuesday on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, confiscating three pistols and a shotgun. Booked at the Berrien county jail was William C. Bates, 55. Troopers said Bates' car was stopped for speeding on I-94 at Park road, Coloma township about 10:15 a.m.

Officers of the Berrien County Metro Crime Unit arrested a Benton Harbor man Tuesday after finding an allegedly stolen car.

Booked at the Berrien jail on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100 was George Lee Perry, 29, of 389 Clay avenue. Metro officers said a tip led them to Perry's Auto Repair, 110 North Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, where a car, reported stolen in Gary, Ind., on Sept. 2, was found.

Hybicki claims he was injured in an explosion and fire in a scrap crusher at the plant, and claims the crusher was manufactured without adequate explosion proofing and fire protection, and didn't have other safety devices.

Named defendant, and identified as the manufacturer of the scrap crusher, was American

Crash Fatal To 48

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — An Indonesian jetliner with 68 persons crashed today in south Sumatra, and the communications department said 20 persons were believed to have survived.

A spokesman said the plane, a Fokker 28 operated by the government's Garuda Airways, crashed in flames eight miles from Palembang, its destination. It was on a flight from Jakarta.

Two Men Waive Hearings In Berrien Court

Two Benton Harbor men waived examinations Tuesday in Berrien Fifth District court and were bound over to Circuit court on charges of unarmed robbery. Also Tuesday three people demanded examinations and nine were sentenced.

Jessie Lee Brown, Jr., 28, of 548 Cass street, and Roy Lee 'Slick' Campbell, 18, of 362½ Territorial, both of Benton Harbor, were bound over to Circuit court on charges of unarmed robbery of a tape deck, cash, a watch, a shotgun and a white straw hat from Nathaniel Tallon Aug. 15 in Benton township.

Campbell, also, waived examination, and was bound over to Circuit court, on a charge of delivery of LSD Sept.

3 in Benton Harbor. He was jailed on $12,500 bonds while Brown was jailed on $7,500 bail.

Demanding examinations were Ronald D. Griffith, 24, of Lake Shore drive, Union Pier, charged with leaving the scene of a personal injury accident in which Jerry Harrison, 23, LaPorte, Ind., was injured Sept. 21 in Chikaming township. Harrison, walking along Red Arrow highway, was allegedly struck by an auto that did not stop. Griffith was released on $300 bond.

Anthony Quinn Olando, 17, of 1209 Miners road, Royalton township, charged with larceny of over $100, in connection with the theft Aug. 15 of $2,300 from Gilbert LaBar. He was released on $1,000 personal recognizance bail.

Ruth Elton Walker, 36, of Detroit, accused of carrying a concealed pistol in Benton township Sept. 23. Bond of $2,000 was posted.

Sentenced were:

Michael D. Blaylock, 21, and Victoria L. Nelson, 18, both of 6150 Red Arrow highway, Stevensville, fine and costs of $50 each for disorderly person, illegal occupation, a lesser included offense, under the original charge, possession of marijuana.

Bobbie Lee Singleton, 38, of Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail, and William Anderson, 18, of Coloma road, Hagar township, 60 days in jail, both for petty larceny.

Gary N. Elsner, 18, of 5664 South Pipestone road, Sodas, $150 for malicious destruction to property valued under $100, lights at Benton Township Park Sept. 20.

Theodore R. Oles, 19, of 4730 Scottsdale road, Royalton township, $50 for use of marijuana Sept. 22 in Berrien Springs.

Ronald D. Wycott, 26, of 8063 Lincoln, Baroda, 90 days in jail for entering an occupied home without permission Dec. 18, 1974, in Benton township.

Eugene A. Little, 44, of New Buffalo, $150 or 30 days in jail for driving while intoxicated going higher.

A more serious matter should be considered. Would the American farmers want to feed the enemy if Russia starts up another war? If you heard Alexander Solzhenitsyn when he talked in Washington, D.C., or read his talk later you will recall that he urged America to stop feeding the enemy, the Kremlin, and stop selling them all kinds of know-how which makes them stronger. He warned us that the Soviet Union is using detente for its own ends. He urged Americans to defend their own future. He stressed that we should stop the senseless process of endless concessions to aggressors of the Kremlin.

Has America ever asked for the release of American prisoners in slave camps in Russia, some of whom are news reporters, pilots, missionaries, and many others? Let them release these prisoners before we sell them one more grain.

Editor,

Dorothy Scott has expressed her beliefs, obviously, with honest and genuine feelings. I cannot help but feel that she has based these feelings on a limited amount of information pertaining to this subject. She has taken on the entire hunting field because of one remote issue: I realize she is against all killing, but it seems the hunting preserves are her major complaint. That is like calling for an end to autos because one person was killed crossing the street!

While Dorothy Scott is against killing for what appears to be religious reasons, I personally am against it for personal reasons. But just because we are against hunting doesn't make it wrong. Even I know that C.B.S. did not give us an unbiased look at hunting. If you think back, you'll remember that they have given us several previous views that were all biased. As in the case of Ms. Scott, I think her religious views just happened to fit right in with C.B.S. ideas.

If a person wants to jump on the cracker barrel, then they should take issue with a particular item, such as if hunting should be allowed in an enclosed area. As for a person "vacuous expressions," I'm sure you'll find a few who don't fit the mold no matter if he believes, jobs, or religious beliefs. Hunters have rights, and even though they may not be the same as mine, I'll not say that they are definitely wrong. I also think the C.B.S. reaction show will more than likely be as was its fore-runner, biased from start to finish.
